

PRESIDENT ACTS TO GIVE DULLES STRONG BACKING IN GENEVA TALKS

Sends Letter to Nixon and Cabinet Asserting Secretary of State 'Speaks for Me With Authority.'

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

DENVER, Oct. 24—President Eisenhower has acted to give his strongest personal backing to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the forthcoming Geneva Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

In a letter to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Mr. Eisenhower has asked Nixon and the Cabinet to bear in mind that Dulles "speaks for me with authority" both at the conference table and "before the world."

Text of the letter was released yesterday by Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty at the Denver White House. Hagerty said Nixon read the letter to members of the Cabinet at a meeting last Friday.

Public Statement Planned. Hagerty also disclosed that Mr. Eisenhower would make a public statement at the conference before it opens Thursday, a move forecast by Dulles last week.

The President thus will have given two public expressions of his views on the conference before the foreign ministers of Britain, France, the United States and Russia get down to work at Geneva.

In the letter to Nixon, Mr. Eisenhower emphasized that Dulles goes to the conference "as my personal representative having my complete confidence and with whom I have continuous close understanding."

Hagerty said the letter was dictated by the President, without Dulles' knowledge, after Dulles conferred with Mr. Eisenhower last Wednesday. The two men discussed the Geneva meeting at that time.

Afterwards, Dulles hinted strongly that some sort of presidential message would be issued before the Geneva talks began, but Hagerty said yesterday the letter to Nixon was not what Dulles had in mind and that another statement would be forthcoming.

Possible Motives. Observers here thought Mr. Eisenhower might have had one or more motives in writing to the Vice President:

1. He may want to reassure the world that his policies of peace and sincere negotiation with the Russians have not been changed or weakened by his illness, and that Dulles will pursue these aims as vigorously as Mr. Eisenhower himself would.

2. He may want to forestall any statements by members of his own party that would conflict with the policy lines to be advanced by Dulles at Geneva. In other words, any "second-guessing" by top Republicans who may not entirely share his views.

3. Conceivably, Mr. Eisenhower may have had in mind the questionable status of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the conference. Molotov recently confessed to an "ideological" error and there has been speculation he may be on the way out.

In this view, the letter to Nixon would have the effect of greatly strengthening Dulles' standing at Geneva, reaffirming the President's faith in his Secretary of State while Molotov's position with the Soviet leaders is in doubt.

Text of Letter.

Text of the letter to Nixon: "Dear Dick: I want to say a word to you, and through you to my Cabinet associates, about the task which Foster Dulles will be assuming at Geneva. As head of the American delegation he will be carrying a heavy load of responsibility, not only as Secretary of State, but as my personal representative having my complete confidence and with whom I have continuous close understanding."

"This second meeting at Geneva was one of the steps toward solving world problems which Foster and I planned together, and which we have talked over fully not only before my illness but twice since."

"I hope that each one in Government will do whatever he can to make Foster's task easier. The Secretary of State must have the discretionary authority which is needed if there is to be effective negotiation and the spirit of conciliation which I have called for at that meeting. He must be the one who both at the conference table and before the world speaks for me with authority for our country."

"With warm regard,

"As ever,

"Dwight D. Eisenhower."

After his meeting with the President last Wednesday, Dulles told reporters he was going to Geneva with "a full and complete mandate" from Mr. Eisenhower "to speak for our nation."

Hagerty was asked yesterday why Mr. Eisenhower went to the unusual length of repeating his mandate in a letter to Nixon. Was there ever any doubt, reporters wondered, that Dulles had full authority to speak for the President at Geneva?

"No, of course not," Hagerty replied. He added that "we

Senators Home, Demand Defense Dept. Explain Plane Statement

SENATORS JOHN L. McCLELLAN (Dem.), Arkansas (left), and JOHN STENNIS (Dem.), Mississippi, leaving a regularly-scheduled military air transport today after their arrival in Washington from Europe. The Senators insisted they had not requested a special plane to be sent to Europe for them at a cost of $10,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—Two Senators returned from Europe today aboard a regularly-scheduled military air transport, and said that the Defense Department will have to explain statements that a special plane had been sent at their request to pick them up.

The Senators, Democrats John L. McClellan of Arkansas and John Stennis of Mississippi, insisted they never had requested a special plane to be sent to Europe for them at a cost of $10,000.

"I shall certainly expect them (the Department of Defense) to make an explanation," McClellan said. "If there was any intent to embarrass me, I positively refused to be embarrassed."

A Serious Mistake. Stennis said "a serious mistake has been made" and "I am going to call on the Department of Defense for a statement of facts."

The Senators, who are members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, arrived aboard a four-engine Military Air Transport Service plane from Germany. The trip, a regularly-scheduled MATS flight, is called the "blue plate special" within the Air Force. The plane carried a load of 44 passengers, including the Senators and military personnel.

About an hour earlier the special plane which had been sent empty to Madrid to pick up the two Senators returned with a load of 19 military personnel, including four military families, taken on at Frankfurt.

FLORIDA GOVERNOR DENIES DEMAND HE QUIT SHERIFF

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 24 (AP)—Gov. Leroy Collins today denied a demand by a CIO union that Lake County Sheriff Willis McCall be suspended but said he was well aware of "an unsatisfactory atmosphere surrounding law enforcement in Lake County."

Collins wired the president of the United Packinghouse Workers he had been assured by McCall that a "diligent investigation" was being made of shotgun blasts which broke up a union organization meeting at Umatilla.

Collins said in his telegram to Ralph Helstein, Chicago, the union president, that he was assigning one of his own investigators to the case.

TEXAN TELEPHONE PALACE ABOUT PRINCESS'S ROMANCE

VICTORIA, Tex., Oct. 24 (AP)—John Moran of the Victoria Advocate decided to telephone Buckingham Palace last night to see what he could find out about the romance of Princess Margaret and Peter Townsend.

He forgot one detail.

When it's 9:40 p.m. in Texas, it's 3:40 a.m. in London.

And "her Majesty's secretary is asleep, and can't be disturbed at this time."

Moran planned to try again today.

Officially Rescued.

LONDON, Oct. 24 (UP)—Daily Herald Correspondent Hugh Pilcher cabled from Malta today that he had a most unusual exclusive interview with Maltese Premier Dom Mintoff. He said Mintoff saved him from drowning in a water polo game.

wanted to put it in writing and let everybody in the Cabinet first know it and then let the world know it."

Asked what inspired the letter, Hagerty said, "It is very simple. The Secretary of State is head of the American delegation. The Secretary of State speaks for the American delegation at Geneva. This gives Foster complete authority from the President."

In response to another question, Hagerty said the letter did not indicate any "dissension" between the State and Defense Departments.

The press secretary said Mr. Eisenhower's second statement on the Geneva meeting probably would be made before Wednesday and would be in the form of a written message, not a radio address.

ISRAEL ACCUSED OF KILLING THREE SYRIANS IN RAID

U.N. Truce Chief Flying to New York to Report on Tense Border Situation.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 24 (AP)—The United Nations truce chief for Palestine was en route by air to U.N. headquarters in New York today to report on the troubled situation along the Israel-Arab borders. The group includes the four Nationalists who shot up the House of Representatives in 1954.

The Supreme Court rejected the appeals in a brief order, which gave no reason for the action.

Each of the 12 Nationalists was sentenced to six years in prison after trial in United States district court in New York last year. The United States court of appeals upheld the convictions last May.

Serving Long Terms. The four Nationalists who fired into the House and wounded five Representatives in 1954 already are serving long prison terms for that crime.

The defendants were leading members and officials of the Nationalist party of Puerto Rico, a small but fanatical faction seeking independence for the United States territory.

In a previous trial, Lolita Lebron, Rafael Cancel Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero and Irving Flores Rodriguez were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 16 to 75 years for shooting up Congress. Their convictions recently were affirmed by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Others convicted on the conspiracy charge were Julio Pinto Gambia, Juan Francisco Ortiz Medina, Jose A. Otero Otero, Raul Colon, Juan Bernardino Lebron, Carmelo Alvarez Roman, Armando Diaz Matos, and Manuel Rabago Torres.

Other Actions.

In other actions, the court: 1. Reversed, without comment, a decision of the United States Supreme Court upholding the right of the state censor board to bar the movie, "The Moon Is Blue," as too sexy.

The Supreme Court gave only one clue to its reason for the reversal. It cited its own 1953 ruling, in a case involving the movie, "The Miracle," that a state law may not give censors "arbitrary" powers to bar movies at will.

2. Instructed a United States district court in New York to grant a hearing to 14 Communist aliens who have been ordered deported but who cannot find a country willing to take them. The Communists have challenged the constitutionality of the McCarran-Walter immigration law's "parole" provisions for such cases. Under these provisions, the aliens are required to report once a month to immigration authorities, cease all Communist activities, and submit to other restrictions.

3. Dismissed, by a 6-to-2 vote, a California motorist's claim that his constitutional right against self-incrimination was violated when he was forced to take a blood test after being arrested for drunken driving. Justices Black, Burton, Clark, Frankfurter, Harlan and Minton voted for dismissal. Justices Reed and Douglas dissenting. Chief Justice Warren took no part.

4. Left standing a lower court decision clearing the independent International Longshoremen's Association of contempt of court in connection with a 1954 dock strike in New York. A federal judge imposed fines on three officers on grounds that the month-long strike violated court injunction. But the United States court of appeals in New York reversed the convictions last June, holding that the injunction simply forbade a "secondary boycott" type of strike, and that the dock strike did not fall into that category.

GIRLS BORN IN WISCONSIN ARE JOINED AT ABDOMEN

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 24 (AP)—Joined twin girls were born yesterday at Madison General Hospital to a 36-year-old Dane county woman.

The girls are joined at the abdomen, but apparently are normal in all other respects. The physician, who would not reveal the name of the parents, said it would take four or five days' study to determine what might be done to separate the girls.

The parents have one other child, the physician said. Both the mother and the twins are reported in good condition.

SUPREME COURT BARS APPEAL BY PUERTO RICANS

Action Upholds Conviction, Sentences of 12 Who Plotted Revolution.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—The Supreme Court turned down today the appeals of 12 Puerto Rican nationalist leaders sentenced to prison for plotting a revolution against the United States Government. The group includes the four Nationalists who shot up the House of Representatives in 1954.

The Supreme Court rejected the appeals in a brief order, which gave no reason for the action.

U.S. Agencies Use 30 New Ways To Keep Data From Public

House Subcommittee Tells of Evasion of President's Order to Give Out More Information.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—Government agencies have figured out 30 different ways to get around a presidential order designed to make more government information available to the public.

Congressional sources disclosed this yesterday as a house government operations subcommittee sorted replies it sent to 63 departments and agencies regarding government information and security policies. The subcommittee plans to open public hearings Nov. 7.

President Eisenhower decreed in November 1953, that only three security labels should be applied to government documents—"confidential," "secret" and "top secret."

Abolishes One Label. He abolished the old "restricted" label. Instead, he said, any material previously kept secret under that label should be applied to the lowest security rating was to be cleared for public disclosure or up-graded, if necessary to the "confidential" level.

One other classification, "restricted data," is provided by the Atomic Energy Act for protecting atomic secrets.

The House survey showed that agency after agency has created additional stamps, using various languages, to keep under wraps papers which officials do not want disclosed but which cannot be covered by the three official security labels. The agencies reported a total of 30 different formulas in use. Typical of the agency inventions are "administratively confidential," "not for publication," "limited official use," "confidential treatment," "medical-private," and "whatever it may mean—personal-official."

Colored Paper Used. One agency said it uses no stamp but identifies unofficially-secret documents by putting them on specially-colored paper.

The agencies all cited some legal grounds for their actions. One document frequently referred to was a presidential order in the Army-McCarthy inquiry, in which Mr. Eisenhower authorized officials to refuse to tell Congress of conversations within the executive branch of the Government.

All agencies now have returned their questionnaires to the House subcommittee headed by Representative John E. Moss (Dem., California).

The answers are being printed and will be made public in advance of the subcommittee's public hearings.

The subcommittee expects to air in detail about a half dozen cases in which information allegedly has been improperly withheld from the public. None of these cases, it was learned, involved a significant "cover up" or a big news break.

FARM PRODUCT PRICES SUFFER FURTHER DROP

Record Crops and Livestock Bring Setback, U.S. Reports—Amount Not Given.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Department of Agriculture reported yesterday that farm product prices as a whole suffered a further setback between mid-September and mid-October under the influence of a record output of crops and livestock products.

The exact amount of the price decline will be given in a formal agricultural price report to be issued Friday.

Farm prices already average 4 per cent below a year ago. Farmers' cash receipts from sale of their products also are down about 4 per cent, the department said.

Prices of meat animals, particularly hogs, contributed to most of the farm price drop in recent weeks. Some farm and political leaders have been urging the department to buy limited supplies of pork and remove it from the market in the hope that this would cause hog prices to increase. Egg prices declined also.

The department said non-farm commodities, on the other hand, have moved to higher prices. Metal prices were said to be more than one fifth higher than a year ago.

Farmers' cash receipts from marketing in the first three quarters of the year were estimated at $19,700,000,000, or 4 per cent less than in the corresponding period a year ago. Receipts from live stock and livestock products of $11,700,000,000 were 5 per cent lower than in 1954, largely because of a drop of 29 per cent in average prices of hogs.

Receipts from dairy products were about the same as last year, but returns from poultry and eggs were slightly higher. Grop receipts of eight billion dollars were down 3 per cent from a year ago, as declines in wheat and cotton were only partly offset by increases for soybeans, tobacco and vegetables.

The department said it appears that the combined production of crops and livestock and livestock products this year may total around 2.5 per cent above the record output of 1954.

BUS, STREETCAR UNION TO VOTE WEDNESDAY ON P.S. CO. OFFER

Leaders to Explain
Transit Line's Proposal for Graduated
13-Cent Wage Rise
at Two Meetings.

Bus and streetcar operators will meet Wednesday to vote on St. Louis Public Service Co.'s new wage offer, it was announced today.

The 2600 operators will meet at Carpenter's Hall, Grand boulevard and Cozans avenue, to hear officers of their union, Division 788 of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, explain the company's new wage proposal. Because of working schedules, the meeting will be held in two sections—at 10 a.m. and at 8 p.m.

13-Cent Increase.
The offer calls for a graduated increase of 13 cents an hour under a proposed two-year contract which would date from last March 1.

Although it is only one cent higher than the increase recommended by a public hearing panel, the offer includes a greater amount of retroactive pay and restructure of the one-hour pay allowance for selling weekly permits.

The findings by the public hearing panel precipitated a 3½-day strike by the company's operating employees earlier this month.

The company's latest offer was made after protracted sessions conducted at Hotel Jefferson by the State Board of Mediation, which heard from representatives of both sides in the dispute.

Arthur E. East, president of Local 788, declared that the company's wage proposal would be presented "fairly and thoroughly" to the union members Wednesday.

He expressed the hope that mediation sessions would be resumed immediately if the men reject the proposal.

Secret Ballot Sought.
The company has requested a secret ballot, although the union has no fixed rule on the method of voting.

Under the proposed 13-cent increase, 5 cents would be applied immediately and made retroactive to last March 1. The additional 8 cents would become effective in two 4-cent installments, on Jan. 1 and July 1.

Memorial day would be added as a sixth paid holiday. Drivers instructing student operators would receive 20 cents an hour above the regular rate, instead of 10 cents. Others terms of the proposed contract, which would run to Feb. 28, 1957, relate to selection of runs and other working rules.

CAUGHT AFTER SNATCHING PURSE IN FRONT OF POLICE

A man who said he was Peter Cole, living in the 3800 block of Page boulevard, was arrested last night by two patrolmen who were about 10 feet behind him when he snatched a purse on Grand boulevard between Olive street and Washington boulevard.

Patrolmen Vernon Ketcher and Robert McKeage chased Cole into an alley. He halted when they warned they would shoot.

Victim of the purse-snatching was Miss Charlotte DuBois, Dalton, Ark., a student, now living at 5528 Waterman boulevard. Cole, a Negro, unemployed laborer, was charged with larceny from a person.

$305 STOLEN FROM CAFE

Loss of $305 from the safe at Petit Pigalle restaurant, 4207 Lindell boulevard, was reported today by police to the owners. Between 3 p.m. and 11 p.m. yesterday, burglars broke through three doors leading from the Windsor Hotel to the restaurant office where the safe was kept.

They carried it to the front bar, where they broke it open with hammers and chisels.

ATTORNEY AGAIN BECOMES FATHER WHILE IN COURT

Being called from a courtroom to be told that his wife has given birth to a baby is no novelty for Ray T. Dreher, a St. Louis attorney.

The latest version of the now-familiar sequence occurred today when Dreher was summoned from the court of United States District Judge George H. Moore.

Dreher was told he had just become the father of a girl. Proudly reporting the birth, he related that he had been in court when his two other children were born. They are Stephen, 3 years old, and David, 1.

Dreher, who does not let the stork interfere with his law practice, continued his duties as a defense counsel for Carlisle Cooper, vice president and general manager of Andy Burger Motors, who is being tried on a perjury indictment growing out of statements he made to Internal Revenue agents.

NO RANSOM BILLS FOUND SINCE OCT. 5; OFFICERS PUZZLED

Failure of any of the Green-lease ransom bills to appear since Oct. 5 continued today to puzzle authorities seeking some clue to the missing money.

The only explanation advanced is that perhaps the hoodlums who had possession of the ransom bills became frightened and stopped passing the money after it became known in August that it was being put into circulation.

Bills appeared in various parts of the country, particularly in the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, up to Oct. 5, but there would necessarily be a delay between the passing of the money and its discovery.

Eighty $20 bills were recovered from the missing ransom, which originally totaled $303,720. It was part of the $600,000 given in 1953 to Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, kidnap-killers of Bobby Greenlease.

WARRANTS REFUSED FOR 3 WHO STARTED HOTEL FIRE

The Circuit Court's office today declined to issue warrants against three St. Louis University students arrested in connection with a fire they admitted starting at the Park Plaza Hotel early Saturday as a "prank" to annoy three Villa Duchesne preparatory school girls.

Police identified the students as James J. Raymond Jr., 6327 Bancroft avenue; Aderton Primus Samuel, 6013 Cabanne place; and John Thomas Peistrup, 1227 Arch terrace, Richmond Heights. They were arrested on descriptions furnished by the mother of one of the girls. The incident took place on the hotel's third floor.

Evidence was insufficient, and the aggrieved parties failed to prosecute, the Circuit Court's office said. The youths tried unsuccessfully to gain admittance to a room occupied by the girls, whereupon they poured a liquid in front of the door, and one of them threw a lit match on the solution.

TRIPLETS, ALL BOYS, DOUBLE LITTLE FAMILY

Clyde Little, an $80-a-week automobile worker whose family suddenly doubled in size yesterday when his wife gave birth to triplets, is looking for larger living quarters.

His three-room apartment at 1824½ North Twenty-second street is too small for the Little family, he said.

The triplets, all boys and apparently identical, were born at Maternity Hospital of the Barnes Hospital Group. They are Richard, 4 pounds 9 ounces; Robert, 5 pounds 13 ounces; and Rodney, 5 pounds 7 ounces. Mother and triplets were reported "doing fine" today.

Mrs. Little now has had four babies within a year. A girl, Iris Jean, was born 11 months ago. Little also has a 9-year-old son, Ricky, by a previous marriage. The advent of the triplets was something of a surprise, he said cautiously. There have been no multiple births on either side of the family—not until yesterday, that is.

FIRE COCA-COLA DRIVERS JOIN AFL TEAMSTERS' UNION

About 200 Coca-Cola truck drivers, who were discharged when they refused to cross the CIO soft drink workers' picket line at their St. Louis plant last Thursday, today voted to affiliate with Local 658, AFL Teamsters' Union, a union representative announced.

Harold J. Gibbons, secretary-treasurer of Local 658, said shortly after the affiliation meeting, which was held at the Italian Fraternal building, 626 North Vandeventer avenue, that members of the union would join the soft drink workers on the picket line.

About 60 soft drink workers walked out of the Coca-Cola plant, 2930 North Market street, Thursday morning in protest against working split days. The truck drivers had been members of an independent union for the last three years.

BERKELEY WOMAN, SHOT BY HER HUSBAND, DIES

Mrs. Herschel O. Courtney died yesterday in St. Louis County Hospital of a head wound suffered when she was shot by her husband early Saturday in their home at 5945 Dowling avenue, Berkeley. She was 54 years old.

Courtney, a carpenter, was held on a first-degree murder warrant issued by Magistrate Raymond I. Harris at Clayton. Courtney admitted the shooting, with a .45 caliber automatic pistol, in a signed statement. Berkeley police said. He said he and his wife had been scuffling.

Mrs. Courtney was wounded by one bullet which entered the back of her head and passed through it.

UNION ELECTRIC COUNTY TAX BILL CUT BY $77,208

Company to Pay Less
Despite $3,826,268
Rise in Assessment of Property.

Union Electric Co. will pay $77,208 less taxes this year than last on its distributive property in St. Louis county, although the assessed valuation of these properties increased $3,826,268, figures made public by County Collector Willis W. Benson showed today.

Much of the increase in the company's distributive property, consisting of such items as rights-of-way, poles and wire, resulted from expansion of facilities to keep up with the county's rapid growth.

The seeming anomaly of lower taxes despite higher assessments grows out of the reduction in tax rates which local officials were required by law to place in effect after the 60 per cent increase in real estate valuations ordered by the State Tax Commission.

Assessed valuation of Union Electric's distributive properties increased from $21,401,695 last year to $25,229,963 this year, and taxes on these properties decreased from $993,292 to $926,084.

$269,689 Saving.
As told yesterday, public utilities will save an aggregate of $269,689 this year in taxes on their property in St. Louis county as a result of the valuation increase on real property.

Distributive property is assessed by the State Tax Commission rather than by local officials. Since valuations on this property already range from 45 to 55 per cent of actual value, there were no increases on existing property by the commission.

All 17 of the utilities will pay lower taxes on their distributive property, although in some cases the reduction will be offset partly by modest rises in real estate taxes.

Over-all savings in distributive property taxes among the 17 utilities this year is $311,954. This figure, offset by $42,264 representing real estate tax increases, leaves net savings of $269,689.

Substantial tax saving also will be experienced this year by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which like Union Electric has been expanding its operations. Its assessed valuation went up from $7,417,224 last year to $7,486,790 this year, and at the same time its valuation dropped $71,785, from $356,137 to $284,352.

Property of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. in the county rose in assessed value from $516,845 to $601,945, while its distributive property taxes went down from $22,444 to $20,770.

Property of most of the other 14 utilities listed went down in assessed valuation and the tax savings thus were proportionately greater.

AFL UNION AGENT PLEADS GUILTY OF TAX EVASION

John Haywood, Collinsville, Asks for Probation—Withdraws Earlier Defense.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 24—John A. Haywood of Collinsville, district representative for the AFL Hod Carriers Union, pleaded guilty of income tax evasion today in United States district court and asked for probation.

After Haywood withdrew a not-guilty plea which he had made following his indictment in May and entered the new plea, United States District Judge Charles G. Briggie referred the case to a probation officer for investigation.

Haywood was charged with evading $23,998 in taxes on income of $93,382 for 1949 through 1952. The Government said he reported income for those years at $28,041.

Haywood is charged in two other counts with falsely denying he had received money, gifts or property from any contractor. Action on these counts is being withheld, it was explained by United States Attorney John B. Stoddard.

Stoddard said he has filed a bill of particulars asserting Haywood's unreported income came from payoffs by contractors who feared labor trouble.

Haywood was permitted by the court to remain free under $10,000 bond.

Each of six counts in the indictment against Haywood carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and five years in prison. He is 54 years old and represents hodcarriers in a 12-county area, with headquarters at Edwardsville.

EX-CONVICT SHOT WHEN RESISTING FBI ARREST DIES

Crippled Fugitive
Wounded After Barricading Self in Room.

Leo F. Johnson, a crippled former convict with a record of numerous arrests, died at City Hospital today of wounds suffered yesterday when he resisted Federal Bureau of Investigation agents seeking to arrest him in a third-floor room at 2205 Arsenal street.

Johnson, 45 years old, was being sought on two charges of interstate transportation of stolen automobiles. He had barricaded himself in the room, FBI agents said, and was armed with a bed slat. The agents said he threatened to kill them.

Two shots were fired at Johnson, who wore an artificial leg and had only one arm. One bullet struck him in his good right arm and the other in the chest. He was taken to City Hospital where he underwent surgery for removal of the bullet in the chest.

Four agents went to the three-story building after receiving information that Johnson, who was using an alias of Leo Frank Conwell, had recently come to St. Louis from Beaumont, Tex. He was wanted for stealing and driving automobiles from Louisville, Ky., to Sioux Falls, S.D., and from Memphis, Tenn., to Pocatello, Idaho, earlier this year.

The agents talked to Johnson's wife, Doris, who was in a second-floor room. She told them her husband was not there and invited them to search the house, they reported. They made a search and decided to investigate a third-floor room in which they heard noises of furniture being moved.

Finding a door leading to the hallway securely locked, two of the agents climbed on a ledge outside the room and peered into the room through a window. They saw that Johnson had barricaded himself behind a pile of furniture.

The other two agents, Byron Dunbar and Fred T. Harris, reported they entered another room and were able to force open a door leading to the room in which Johnson was hiding. As they entered, the agents reported, he began cursing and screaming that he would kill them all.

As the agents advanced on him, Johnson began swinging a heavy, four-foot bed slat. Harris, the nearest agent, jumped back. He drew his service revolver and fired twice.

Police records show that Johnson was first arrested at Kansas City for larceny of an automobile in 1929 when he was 19 years old. Since then he has served terms in the Missouri and Kansas penitentiaries for burglary and larceny and other crimes.

He also has served several jail sentences and has been committed as a mental patient at the Fulton (Mo.) Parsons (Kan.) and Anna (Ill.) state hospitals.

ICE CREAM MAKERS MEET HERE, COIN NEW SALES SLOGAN

About 3000 ice cream manufacturers gathered here today and immediately began promoting a new slogan, "The Food That's Fun," in an effort to increase consumption of their product.

Hugh F. Hutchinson of Lewisburg, Va., president of the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, announced the new sales pitch at the opening of the trade group's three-day convention at Hotel Jefferson.

The slogan was adopted only after careful research, he said. The association president did not say whether any research had been done on the many problems caused by the melting of its product in the hands of young children.

WOMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH

Ertha L. Warren was shot to death yesterday at her home, 715 King street, Kinloch. She was 27 years old. Mack McCloud, laborer, of the same address, last night surrendered at the sheriff's office in Clayton and admitted the shooting, police said.

McCloud, a Negro, said he and the Warren woman, also a Negro, had quarreled over money. He was booked suspected of murder.

LABOR ACCUSED OF COERCION IN POLITICS

G.O.P. Report Asserts Unions Plan Use of
'Massive Slush Funds'
in '56.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Republicans were circulating today a report accusing union labor leaders of using "violence and coercion" in a "conspiracy of national proportions" aimed at controlling 1956 election results.

The report, prepared by Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, chairman of the Republican senatorial committee, said organized labor leaders are preparing for "massive use of political slush funds—on a nationwide scale."

It said "the use of violence and coercion by union leaders... has now been transferred from the area of industrial disputes and brought boldly into purely political areas."

The report charged that there have been "increasingly ruthless and successful efforts of certain elements in the leadership of the labor unions to take over and control the Democratic party."

The report first was made secretly by Goldwater to Republican state chairmen in a recent campaign school.

It got a mixed reception there. Circulation of the report among party workers, however, was interpreted as indicating a majority view that there is little chance of winning support of the union leaders for Republican candidates.

Goldwater made it clear in his report that the G.O.P. will bid for backing from union members while attacking their leaders. He said independent studies show 40 per cent of union members are Republicans.

He complained these rank and file Republicans are being forced, in order to hold their jobs, to contribute to political funds for the Democrats.

"The union of the AFL and CIO will put the full political machinery of those two organizations in one man's hands in 1956," he said.

"A monthly deduction of only one cent from each of the members would put in the hands of this man $1,800,000 a year for political purposes. And we know the political assessment is far higher than a union boss raises."

"When a union boss raises $10,000,000 for political purposes out of compulsory union dues, $4,000,000 of that money must come from Republican union members."

PLANT TO GIVE SAAR EUROPEAN STATUS IS BEATEN, 2 TO 1

ment chief. Hoffmann has been in power since 1947. By defeating the Europeanization statute—which had taken five years to work out in Paris and Bonn—the Saarlanders inflicted a bitter humiliation on the French and raised a grim question mark over French-German relations.

Backed by Adenauer. The Europeanization plan would have put the Saar's defense and foreign relations under a neutral commissioner of the seven-nation Western European Union while maintaining its customs and currency union with France. The statute was signed by West German Chancellor Adenauer in Paris a year ago as the price for French agreement to West German rearmament.

Adenauer's message today to Faure said:

"Having learned the provisional results of a vote in the Saar, I wish to express to you in the spirit of our meeting in Luxembourg (on Oct. 5) my firm conviction that the good relations existing between France and Germany must not be, nor will they be, placed in danger by this vote.

"Aware that the two governments have, in the European spirit, loyally sought compromise and have kept their engagements, I am certain that in the future, as in the past, they will follow the path of unity and friendship."

Faure replied: "I remain, as you do, convinced that the results of the election in the Saar must not turn our governments away from the path on which they have set out. The new difficulties which have arisen on our route complicate our task. They will not discourage our common will to serve the cause of a united Europe and the understanding between our two peoples."

The 991-square-mile Saar territory, occupied by France after World War II, now is linked in an economic union with France and the French control its foreign relations and defense.

France previously has said rejection of the Europeanization plan would maintain the present alignment, but a French spokesman conceded today that new negotiations with West Germany on the Saar might now be necessary.

Leaders of all political parties

Tallying Saar Votes

A ballot box being emptied on a table in Saarbrücken yesterday as tallying began following the plebiscite on Europeanizing the Saar. Voters called for reunification with West Germany by a 2-to-1 margin.

ties in Bonn—except the ailing Adenauer, who had backed the agreement to the hill-hailed result of the plebiscite as a "vote for Germany." They left no doubt they expect the French to hand over the territory eventually.

The pro-Germans appealed today to the "French people and the peoples of the Western world of the two other European people and to respect their decision."

Step Toward Unity. Urging that the Saar be consulted on any discussions on its future, they asserted their victory really was a step forward on the road to European unity and was not directed against France.

Heinrich Schneider, chairman of the Democratic party and former Nazi, and the heads of the two other German parties put in an appearance before hundreds of newsmen as the results were announced.

"We won for Germany," Schneider declared. "The Saar has recognized it is a part of Germany. This must be considered in any coming solution of the Saar question."

The Saar was taken from Germany at the end of World War I and placed under a League of Nations trusteeship. In 1935 more than 90 per cent of the Saarlanders voted to join Hitler's Reich.

France's desire to control the Saar's economy stems from its close proximity to the vast iron deposits of French Lorraine. By controlling the mills which process that iron, the French can keep close to a steel party with Germany's Ruhr.

SOUTH VIET NAM BACKS DIEM BY LANDSLIDE VOTE

and the capital indicated about 98 per cent of those voting wanted Bao Dai eliminated from the political scene.

In Saigon, the capital, Diem received 424,126 votes to Bao Dai's 2036. The city of Tourane gave Diem 47,712, Bao Dai 5.

For the first time in modern history the Viet Namese were given the chance to vote in a national election and nearly 5,000,000 turned out. No major violence was reported.

Another referendum probably will be held next month to approve a constitution.

Britain is expected to follow the lead of France and the United States in recognizing Diem as chief of state.

New trouble between the Western Big Three and the Soviet Union loomed as a result. The overwhelming vote of confidence in Diem appeared to rule out any possibility of unification elections in North and South Viet Nam next July, provided by the Geneva armistice and vigorously opposed by Diem as long as the Communist north cannot guarantee free and unfettered voting.

The Soviets, co-chairmen with Britain of the armistice negotiations, were certain to renew their pressure for the elections, probably during the Big Four foreign ministers' conference opening in Geneva this week.

Influence Waned. The referendum marked the second—and apparently final—ousting of Bao Dai from power. Puppet emperor of the kingdom of Annam under the prewar French and during the Japanese occupation, he abdicated in 1945 under pressure from the Communist-led Vietminh and subsequently fled to Hong Kong. The French returned him in 1949 as chief of state, but his influence waned steadily after he went back to France last year and Diem's star rose.

From France Bao Dai gave active support to Diem's enemies and twice ordered him out of office. Instead of obeying, Diem pushed ahead, unified the warring army, defeated the rebellious Hoa Hao and Binh Xuyen private armies, jailed or exiled those Bao Dai named to replace him and brought unity to the country torn by nine years of civil war.

pletely frank, however, and not infer to you that these revised procedures—these checks and bops—will insure in every case in the future that all endeavors undertaken will be completely successful.

"In this day of rapid technological progress, we must venture into the unknown."

He said the Navy has on contract 280 Demon planes, costing $510,785,000—a 10 per cent cutback from the original order for 328.

Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas had given the cost of the ill-starred program as $154,000,000.

Thomas told the Post-Dispatch the first 30 planes off the production line could not be refitted with the Allison J-71 engine, the more powerful type now used in the successor model, the F3H-2N Demon. Of those 30, five have crashed and the other 25 are the only ones grounded at McDonnell, he said.

The 25 "dead Demons" are to be used for training on the ground.

The next 30 were "not quite as far along" and can be modified to take the Allison engine although retaining the F3H-1N design. This has already been done with four of them, and all 30 eventually will become operational aircraft, he said.

The Demon program was started early in the Korean war and was a hurry-up job.

One thing the House investigators have said they want to find out is why the Navy continued to accept the planes in question up to last June, after tests had shown many months before that the thrust of the J-40 engine was not enough.

Witnesses invited to testify included J. S. McDonnell, president of the McDonnell company, and Lloyd Harrison, who was appointed vice president in charge of procurement at McDonnell last August after his retirement from the Navy. He had the rank of rear admiral.

Another witness will be W. W. Smith, general manager of the Westinghouse gas turbine division at Kansas City, where the engines were manufactured.

The inquiry was requested by Representative Frank Karsten (Dem.), St. Louis, and by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Secretary Thomas said in his letter to Senator Johnson that the Navy's present procedure is aimed at preventing another procurement failure of this kind.

"Every effort," he said, "has been directed toward maximum recovery of the sums expended and toward research to correct and, ultimately, replace the initial engine."

He added: "I must be com-

Hagerty said. No official visits are scheduled for Wednesday, he added.

On Thursday, Mr. Eisenhower will have his first conference on the State of the Union message, first of the three big messages which go to Congress in January, Hagerty announced.

The others are the budget and economic report messages.

Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Parsons, deputy assistant to the President in charge of liaison with Congress, and Kevin McCann, Mr. Eisenhower's chief speech writer, will fly here from Washington to consult with him on the message.

Hagerty said it would be the "first working session" Mr. Eisenhower has had on the State of the Union address and was a little earlier than he usually starts on it. Hagerty asserted that there was no way to tell at this point whether the President would deliver the message in person.

The five official visitors scheduled thus far this week make it the busiest Mr. Eisenhower has had since his heart attack but it was obvious his doctors thought he was up to it.

WESTERN BIG 3 DRAFT PROPOSAL ON GERMANY

and under tight French control. But few believed Saarlanders who want a return to the German fatherland would meekly accept that solution.

Ismay Appraisal. As the ministers met, Lord Ismay, secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, made a brief appraisal of Russia's "diplomacy of smiles," and told the West to remember that "a bear can kill with a hug."

Ismay, speaking to a news conference, said there was no justification, from a military point of view, for any relaxation in the Western front. Nuclear weapons do not dispense with the need for conventional troops, nor does the existence of the hydrogen bomb make war entirely unthinkable, he added.

Ismay listed the Egyptian arms sale as one of the problems confronting NATO in the wake of the "Geneva spirit." He said the others included the Saar, France's troubles in North Africa, Greek claims to Cyprus and recent Greek-Turk hostility.

Secretary Dulles flew here from Rome with Italian Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino and Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce. During his 19-hour stay in the Italian capital he had an audience with Pope Pius XII. He said they had discussed "our mutual desires for an enduring peace rooted in justice and true liberty."

In discussions with Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and Premier Antonio Segni, Dulles promised to support Italy's application for membership in the United Nations and sought to boost Italian morale by showing the importance he attaches to Italy's position in world affairs. But he apparently stopped short of promising to bring Italy into a Western consulate to the Big Three.

Sharp Upswing in Taxpayers Claiming Undelivered Refunds

70 Visit St. Louis Internal Revenue Service Here by Noon — 44 Average Other Days.

A sharp upswing occurred today in the number of federal income taxpayers applying for undelivered refunds at the Federal building.

Seventy persons had visited the refund office by noon, compared with an average of 44 in the mornings last week.

One taxpayer, Mrs. Louis Tricola, 2310A Madison street, said her refund of $22.27 on 1953 taxes was completely unexpected. She said she already had received one refund for their 17-month-old son, Sam, Mrs. Tricola said.

Names of the taxpayers, who have refunds due on their 1953 and 1954 returns, are being released daily by the Internal Revenue Service office here.

About 500 persons have made refund claims in person or by mail, since publication of the names in the Post-Dispatch began Oct. 16. Names of 3705 taxpayers whose checks were returned by the Post Office Department, for various reasons, are being printed.

Refunds range from 2 cents to $928 and a total of about $136,000 is involved. The refund office is in the basement of the Federal Building, Twelfth boulevard and Market street. Persons applying by mail should include identification, preferably copies of tax returns or W-2 withholding forms.

WOMAN'S RELEASE DELAYED

Mrs. Lillian Chessen, who was granted a parole Friday after serving 22 years of a life prison sentence for her part in the 1933 kidnaping of the late August Luer, may not be released for two or three weeks, it was announced yesterday.

Authorities at the state reformatory for women at Dwight, Ill., said the delay would be necessary to arrange for future care of Mrs. Chessen, who is 72 years old. Eight persons were convicted in the kidnaping of Luer, Alton banker and meat packer, who was released unharmed.

LET EISENHOWER PICK CANDIDATE, KNIGHT SUGGESTS

California Governor Denies He Is Out to Bar Nixon From G.O.P. Nomination.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Edition

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California said last night he thought President Eisenhower should be permitted to pick the Republican candidate for President in 1956.

Speaking on the NBC-TV program, "Meet the Press," he said he thought party harmony would best be served if the Republicans permitted the President to name his own successor in the event his heart condition prevents him from accepting a second term.

Knight said he believed a majority of the people would express their confidence in such a choice, feeling that a Republican candidate named by the President would have the qualities of an "ideal man."

Says Many Could Win.
He said that the Republican party has "a score or more" of men who could win, but he is for Mr. Eisenhower "first, last and always."

Knight again denied that he was out to prevent Vice President Nixon from receiving the nomination. He said he expects to head the California delegation to the San Francisco convention next August and hopes to receive his state's 70 votes on the first ballot as a "favorite son."

He said it was "a tradition accorded the Governor to receive such a nomination. He saw no reason to drop the tradition, he said, even though Nixon, a fellow Californian, may be an active candidate."

Knight denied that he was a candidate. He said he thought the Republican candidate should be "a progressive moderate," a man of "personal and public integrity" in the full vigor of life. He pledged that he would personally oppose any candidate who might oppose the "Eisenhower program."

Can't Count Warren Out.
He said Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court could not be counted out as a possible candidate. He expressed the belief, however, that Warren does not want the nomination. He said that he is not a candidate and said the Chief Justice "is not a casual speaker."

Knight said the "misconception" has arisen that there is a "feud" between himself and Nixon because of a "lively political contest" in Sacramento last year between forces led by Mr. Nixon and those "of myself and Senator (William) Knowland." Knight said that soon after his and Knowland's forces were victorious in the "Sacramento contest," Nixon "endorsed me for Governor."

CITY BOND ISSUE PROGRAM RUNS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Work already has started on several projects under the $110-639,000 public improvements bond program approved by voters last May 26, although January 1956 previously had been mentioned as the starting time. It was brought out yesterday on the League of Women Voters "Let's Face It" program on Station KWK-TV.

Panel members on the program were Sidney Maestre, banker and chairman of the Citizens Bond Issue Supervisory Committee; Robert E. Smith, secretary to Mayor Raymond R. Tucker; William Coibion, planning director for the City Plan Commission; and Thomas J. Purcell, bond issue executive for the city Department of Welfare. Mrs. Mary Schneider of the League was moderator.

Speakers reviewed progress to date under the bond program. Maestre pointed out that major increases in assessed valuations resulting from improvements under the program would mean that in the years ahead little or no tax increases would be necessary to retire the bonds.

4 WISCONSIN DUCK HUNTERS DROWN WHEN BOAT UPSETS

FERRYVILLE, Wis., Oct. 24 (UP)—Four duck hunters, three of them brothers, drowned in the Mississippi river yesterday when strong winds and choppy waters overturned their boat.

The boat, containing seven men, was headed toward an island where the hunters planned to spend the night. A witness said the boat suddenly overturned. Those drowned were Wayne, Marion and Russell Fingerhut of Spring Green, Wis., and Alfred Kelter of Sauk City, Wis. Another boat arrived in time to rescue Harlan Fingerhut, Spring Green, a brother of three of the dead men, Normal Hutson, Ferryville, and Roger Diehl, Spring Green.

RECLAMATION ASSOCIATION OPPOSED TO HOOVER REPORT

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 24 (AP)—The water policy committee and board of directors of the National Reclamation Association yesterday recorded themselves as wholly disagreeing with "implications in the Hoover Commission report that reclamation is an unjustified subsidy shouldered by the nation's taxpayers."

The committee completed action on its report and soon afterwards it was approved by directors in a meeting preliminary to the opening here today of the association's twenty-fourth annual convention.

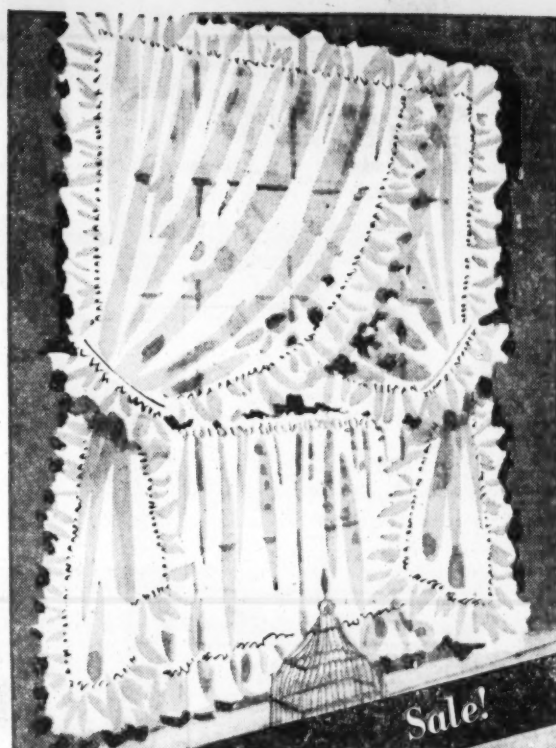

The report says reclamation costs "are in fact being diligently repaid" by water users, power revenues, and increased general tax receipts from reclaimed desert lands.

SAN FRANCISCO AREA ROCKED BY EARTHQUAKE

Woman Dies in Explosion — Windows Broken and Phone Lines Go Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24 (AP)—San Francisco and the East Bay area were rocked last night by the second damaging earthquake in seven weeks. Windows were shattered, telephone lines went dead, statues fell from niches in a chapel, dishes fell from shelves and overhead lights swayed dizzily. In Oakland an apartment house fire started soon after the earthquake and an 85-year-old woman, Ora Bell, was burned to death. A battalion fire chief estimated damage at $25,000 and said the fire was "definitely caused by a gas explosion."

Oakland Firemen blamed the earthquake for a $3000 house fire started by an explosion caused by cracked gas pipes or an extinguished pilot light. Dr. Charles Richter at California Institute of Technology said his seismograph at Pasadena rated the tremor at 5.5, "enough to cause damage in the immediate area of source."

The Richter rating for the big San Francisco quake of 1906 was 8.25. The strongest yet recorded was 8.5 for the Kamchatka quake of 1952. Two statues fell 25 feet from niches in the chapel wall at St. Mary's University, across the bay from San Francisco. The quake was felt as far south as San Jose, although not too heavily, and as far west as Sacramento and Stockton. This quake came just seven weeks after the Sept. 4 temblor that centered at Hollister, south of San Francisco and near San Jose. That quake, too, was given a 5.5 rating.

Yesterday's disturbance started at 8:11:53 p.m. (Pacific standard time) and lasted for about two minutes. By the United Press.

RETIRED BELL CO. MAN WILLS $50,000 TO HIS FIANCEE

Miss Mae Dikes of Kansas City, Mo., has been bequeathed $50,000 under the will of Irvin R. Timlin, retired chief architect for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., it was shown when the will was filed today in probate court at Clayton. The value of the estate was estimated at $100,000.

Miss Dikes told the Post-Dispatch she was engaged to be married to Timlin, a long-time friend, who lived at 6814 Pershing avenue, University City. Miss Dikes said she first met Timlin through friends when she was 16 years old and he was working in Kansas City for the company, first as a draftsman and then as assistant equipment engineer and architect, from 1904 to 1917. Timlin died Oct. 19 of heart disease. A widower, he left $17,250 in other specific bequests to charitable organizations, friends and relatives. The residue of the estate was divided among other friends and relatives.

'ELEPHANT ATE PASSPORT,' BORDER GUARDS BELIEVE IT

BRENNERO, Italy, Oct. 24 (AP)—"I tell you, I had a passport, but the elephant ate it!" That's what Leopold Stovecek, 30, of Vienna, told frontier guards in the Brenner pass last night. And he got away with it. They let him continue his journey to Vienna when other members of the Togni circus troupe bore out his story. Stovecek, an acrobat, left his passport on a table to near the elephants, four days ago in Rome. An elephant reached out its trunk, scooped up the passport, and swallowed it.

A safe containing $349 was removed early yesterday from the Circle Grill, 4004 West Florissant avenue, police said today. The safe was later located broken open and empty at the rear of 1404 Clara avenue. Police said burglars had gained entry by breaking a lock on a basement door in the rear of the building. From the basement they were able to go up to the kitchen on the first floor, where the safe was behind a counter. The safe was identified by Raymond Rahn, 4568A Mary avenue, proprietor of the restaurant.

PLAZA GROUND WON'T BE SOLD BEFORE SPRING

Officials Await Go-Ahead From Government After Making Changes in Plans.

Although the old buildings in the Plaza area have been demolished and the site for a big housing project is now cleared, the ground will not be sold to a private redeveloper before next spring at the earliest, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

The go-ahead signal must be given by the Federal Housing & Home Finance Agency, which is contributing $1,334,675 toward the cost of the slum clearance project. Plans to sell five and one-half blocks to the highest qualified bidder were submitted to the agency almost two months ago, but a number of technical changes were required, and the revised plans still have not been approved.

J. W. Follin, commissioner of the Urban Renewal Administration in Washington, has announced a drive to speed up federal-aid slum clearance projects, and local officials are hoping that the St. Louis project can get final clearance soon.

The municipal Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority will advertise sale of the housing site for 90 days. After bids are received, they must be carefully studied, and it will be another 45 days before the successful bidder is announced.

Approximately 1150 air-conditioned apartments for middle-income tenants, are to be erected. Meanwhile, the city is developing a public park in the adjacent three blocks fronting on Market street between Fifteenth and Eighteenth streets.

FRENCH REAP BITTER FRUIT OF EDC REJECTION

ing his visit to Moscow in establishing diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union with no strings attached. Russia as a result now has access to West Germany as well as East Germany, which means a bargaining position on reunification greatly superior to that of the West.

Dramatic Appeal.

What was not disclosed officially after Adenauer's visit to Moscow last month was almost equally important in its psychological impact on the West Germans who accompanied the old chancellor. On excellent authority, this reporter can state that the Russians urged the Germans to join them in carrying out the industrialization of China. While high German officials, when they discuss it, tend to play it down, this appeal may well have been the most dramatic moment of the German visit.

We need you, the Russians are reported to have said. The task is too great for us alone, Marshal Bulganin declared in a direct bid to Adenauer. We need your industry, your technology and your skills.

As they report this in strict confidence in high circles, German officials belittle the offer. They ask what the Chinese, or for that matter the Russians, have to offer in return. But nevertheless it must have a very deep appeal.

An old dream cherished by many Germans has been the leadership by German brains and technical skill of the resources and manpower of the vast Eurasian land mass covering two thirds of the geography and population of the world. Industrialization of China would keep German factories humming without pause for an indefinite future.

Russia Pressing Advantage. That the Russians are pressing their advantage is made evident in a move which they must have known would be rebuffed but which they nonetheless recently put forward. They suggested that it would be very convenient if the same Soviet ambassador could represent Moscow in both East and West Germany.

Such an arrangement would be tacit acceptance of the status quo of two Germanys and the Russians must have known it would be rejected by the Adenauer regime at Bonn as it promptly was. But the very fact that they were bold enough even to hint at such a proposal shows how they are pressing the advantage they have already gained.

Gaping Hole in NATO Line. Approximately half the French army is in North Africa trying to clamp the lid on Arab nationalism which has taken a more and more violent terrorist form. The result is a gaping hole in NATO's land defenses which would be filled by the 12 German divisions authorized under the Western European union agreement.

The WEU was agreed to after France rejected the European Defense Community plan. It was hailed as superior to the supranational EDC setup. But with the voices of nationalism rising ever louder, as they did just now in the Saar, there must be serious doubt as to whether an old-fashioned coalition—the European union is hardly more than that—can contain the old hatreds and rivalries that have twice before brought Europe down.

SAAR VOTE STIRS ANXIETY IN WEST

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Western Europe today viewed the pro-German victory in the Saar with misgivings verging on anxiety.

There was a feeling the rich territory on the French-German border has emerged once again as a trouble spot carrying the seeds of international discord.

British newspapers especially showed concern over what some described as "Nazi style" campaign tactics of those Saarlanders who led the campaign against Europeanization of the territory.

Though the election result was not unexpected the headlines clearly reflected the shock felt in Britain and revived reluctant memories of Hitler's march into the Saar 20 years ago, his first aggressive move.

Hoffmann Blamed.

German newspapers which reported the campaign voluminously were slow to comment on the result. One of the few editorials—in the independent West Berlin B. Z.—blamed the French-backed Saar Premier Hoffmann and his government for emotions stirred during the campaign and said:

"It is their fault that the campaign aroused over-heated nationalist feelings among the population which are unworthy of our century."

The Dutch De Volkskrant said, "The Saar can no longer be considered a problem concerning solely France and Germany. The Saar remains a European problem—the Saarlanders do not live on an island."

British newspapers emphasized that Dr. Heinrich Schneider, leader of the pro-German group in the Saar, was an ex-Nazi storm trooper.

Under the headline "Saar Sweeps Ex-Nazis to Victory," the tabloid Daily Mirror said: "The vote is a resounding victory for Nazi-style parties in the territory led by former storm trooper Hainz Schneider. Twenty years ago he helped Hitler in a similar plebiscite to get the Saar for Germany."

'Nazi Tub-Thumping.'

The influential Times, while explaining there could be no complaint about the Saarlanders' right to reject the European statute, said:

"Nonetheless, many years' work for reconciliation between France and Germany is now jeopardized. . . . All the heavy appeals of German nationalism have been heard again and there has been tub-thumping in the Nazi style."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which opposed the Western policy of rearming the Germans, said editorially:

"If the French are disappointed they must blame themselves. They should never have agreed to a choice between nationalism and supervision."

"The idea of restoring Germany to its old power and influence still makes an immense appeal to German minds. The folly of arming such people becomes more and more plain."

West German newspapers tended to play down the "nationalism" issue.

Die Welt (The World) of Hamburg said the vote was "true to the fatherland, to the mother tongue and to the homeland—that is an elementary human feeling and has nothing to do with nationalism."

Andre Francois-Ponce, former French high commissioner in Germany, wrote in the independent Paris newspaper Le Figaro that the Saar results were "more regrettable than surprising."

"The Saarlanders turn away from Germany when she is lying strengthless," he wrote. "They come back to her when she again has vigor and health."

FEDERAL MORTGAGE AGENCY HALTS SALES TO END LOSSES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—The Federal National Mortgage Association today suspended all sales from its $2,500,000,000 worth of government-insured mortgages to prevent heavy government losses.

ENMA President J. Stanley Baughman said the recent tightening of credit has driven up interest rates nationally and made FNMA-held mortgages with their fixed, low interest "less attractive" to buyers.

Baughman said the government-owner mortgages have already been selling at a loss and the agency does not want to sell them still cheaper.

Congress, which created FNMA last year ordered purchases halted in October 1954 and an "orderly sale" of FNMA's mammoth portfolio of mortgages. It directed that these mortgages be sold "at a minimum loss to the government."

SOUTH AFRICA BOLTS U.N. DEBATE ON ITS RACE POLICY

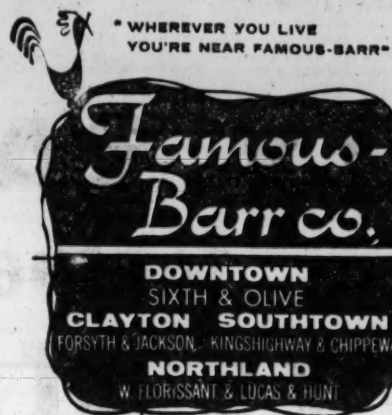

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—The South African delegation walked out of the United Nations Assembly's special political committee today in protest against debate of South African racial policies. The committee immediately adjourned for the day.

W. C. De Plessis, chief South African delegate, told the committee his government felt the U.N. was intervening in domestic matters when it began a debate on "the question of race conflict in South Africa resulting from the policies of apartheid of the government of the Union of South Africa."

The question has been on the U.N. agenda for years but South Africa has sternly resisted all U.N. attempts to do anything about it.

Los Angeles-London Record.

LONDON, Oct. 24 (UP)—A TWA Super-G Constellation landing here today set a new commercial airline record of 19 hours and 12 minutes flying time between Los Angeles and London. Counting a refueling stopover in New York, total elapsed time for the flight was 20 hours and 45 minutes.

LEADER IN MALMEDY MASSACRE FREED

German Gen. Dietrich, Fanatic Nazi, Was Under Life Sentence.

LANDSBERG, Germany, Oct. 24 (AP) — Former Col. Gen. Sepp Dietrich, commander of the Sixth SS Panzer Army involved in the Malmédy massacre of American troops, was secretly released from the United States war crimes prison here Saturday, it was learned today.

Dietrich had been sentenced to life imprisonment by a United States military tribunal after the war.

After being freed, Dietrich left by automobile for Ludwigshafen, where he will make his home.

More than 100 captured American soldiers were shot down by German tanks at Malmédy in Adolf Hitler's Ardennes counter-offensive of December 1944.

The panzers belonged to Dietrich's army and were under the direct command of Col. Joachim Peiper. Peiper was sentenced to hang by the Americans after the war, but they eventually commuted this to a life term.

Dietrich, 63 years old, was regarded as one of the most fanatic Nazis in the Wehrmacht command. After joining the Nazi storm troops, he rose to command Hitler's bodyguard. In 1934, he faithfully carried out the Fuehrer's order to assassinate Ernst Roehm, storm troop leader, in the party's blood purge. As a reward, he was promoted to general's rank in the SS (Elite Guard).

Hitler showered him with decorations for valor in World War I, raising him to corps and then army commander. Beaten in the Normandy invasion, he came back to lead one of the two big German spearheads which six months later pierced the American front in Belgium. The commander of the other spearhead, former Gen. Hasso von Manteuffel, is now a member of the West German parliament.

Dietrich was convicted in July 1946 as the man responsible for the murder of United States soldier captives at Malmédy. His release was in keeping with present United States-British-French policy to empty their war crimes prisons of remaining Germans as soon as possible. The Soviet Union has promised to release all its 9628 convicted German war criminals this month.

SAFE WITH $5000 STOLEN FROM EAST SIDE BAKERY

A 1000-pound safe containing $5000 in cash was taken early yesterday from the Lawrence H. Sandefur Bakery, 1701 St. Louis Avenue, East St. Louis, it was reported to police.

Lawrence H. Sandefur, president of the bakery, said the theft occurred between 2:30 a.m. and 4:30 a.m. Police said the burglars had forced off a back door to gain entrance. They then apparently trundled the safe aboard a handcar belonging to the bakery to the loading platform, where they loaded it on their own truck and drove off.

The TRUMAN MEMOIRS

Mr. Truman Selects U.S.S. Missouri as Scene of Formal Japanese Surrender—Gen. MacArthur Placed in Charge of Occupation.

By HARRY S. TRUMAN
Thirty-third President of the United States.
TWENTY-SIXTH ARTICLE
(Published by Time, Inc.,
Publisher of "LIFE")

THE guns were silenced. The war was over. I was thinking of President Roosevelt, who had not lived to see this day. He would have rejoiced in the fulfillment of the pledge he had given the nation when war was forced upon us in December, 1941. I reached for the telephone and called Mrs. Roosevelt. I told her that in this hour of triumph I wished that it had been President Roosevelt, and not I, who had given the message to our people.

I had previously issued an order giving all Federal employees a two-day holiday in recognition of their faithful service throughout the war years. At a press conference I announced an immediate cut in the monthly draft quota from 80,000 to 50,000. But beyond these orders an infinite number of details remained to be attended to. As was to be expected, the end of hostilities brought with it a mass of new problems.

While London, Moscow, Chungking and Washington were busy with agreements and disagreements that arose in connection with the Japanese surrender, a steady stream of messages from Guam and Manila reported the progress of our forces toward the occupation of the Japanese mainland and the formal surrender that was to be accepted there.

As soon as the first word had been received that the Japanese were ready to accept the Potsdam terms, Adm. Leahy and Gen. Marshall had asked me where I thought the formal surrender should take place. I suggested, without hesitation, that the official act of surrender should take place in Tokyo bay, aboard the U.S.S. Missouri. I thought it wise to hold the ceremony within view of the Japanese capital in order to impress the fact of defeat on the Japanese people, but it also seemed desirable to remain offshore until we could be assured that there would be no last-minute outbursts of fanaticism.

My choice of the Missouri was an obvious one. She was one of the newest and most powerful battleships in our fleet; she had been named after my own state; my daughter Margaret had christened her, and I had spoken on that occasion.

The Japanese surrender was to be a momentous occasion for the American people, and I wanted as many of them as possible to share it. As early as Aug. 13 I had given these instructions to the Joint Chiefs of Staff:

"It is my desire that the formal signing of the Japanese surrender should be an open news event and that free and competitive news coverage should be permitted by the news reporters present."

"It is my desire also that the Allied military and naval officers present at the formal signature of surrender be given full status as representatives of their governments and of their services—land, sea, and air, and that they be accorded every possible consideration."

"Please instruct Gen. MacArthur accordingly."

In the meantime Gen. MacArthur had been informed of our official reply to the Japanese surrender and had been told what procedure to follow in establishing contact with the defeated enemy.

Mr. Truman Keeps in Close Touch.

Gen. MacArthur radioed a message to the Japanese ordering them to send representatives to him at Manila. This was the first of a number of radio exchanges between his headquarters and Tokyo, preparing the way for the formal surrender and the arrival of the occupation troops. As these messages went back and forth, copies passed across my desk to keep me constantly posted on MacArthur's progress.

MacArthur's first message to the Japanese was addressed as follows:

"From Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers to the Japanese Emperor, the Japanese Imperial Government, the Japanese General Headquarters."

On Aug. 17 the Japanese General Headquarters complained that the Russians were still carrying out attacks and asked MacArthur to intervene.

On Aug. 20 the Japanese reported difficulties in China where various local commanders were taking it upon themselves to effect the surrender in their own manner. MacArthur was requested to send officials to China to investigate and advise on "the actual situation."

Meanwhile in Washington we were working on policy directives for the occupation. We expected that control over the conduct of the occupation would become the subject of some differences among the Allies and wanted to fix our position.

On Aug. 18 I approved a memorandum establishing this government's basic policy with regard to the military occupation of Japan. The key point of this policy was that the actual control of occupied Japan should be under our direction. We recognized that others of the United Nations had taken part in the war against Japan and were entitled to take part in the determination of policies, but just as we were expected to furnish the major share of the occupation forces, so did we also want to reserve for ourselves the controlling voice in the occupation. We were determined that the occupation should be run on a centralized control basis and that there should be no division of the Japanese nation into zones.

There were many touchy areas among our allies in connection with the procedures of the formal surrender. In the initial instructions to MacArthur it was specified that, besides himself as Supreme Commander, the surrender document would be signed by the other three representatives of the four powers that had joined in the Potsdam Declaration. The British, however, were anxious to satisfy the demands for participation that came from their dominions, especially Australia. The Foreign Minister there, Mr. Evatt, had made some strong public statements demanding that his country be heard in any dealings with Japan.

I therefore sent word to MacArthur that, in addition to representatives of the United States, Great Britain, China and the Soviet Union, representatives of Australia, Canada, New Zealand, France and The Netherlands had been invited to be present at the acceptance of the Japanese surrender and for him to make the necessary arrangements.

Schedule Postponed by Island Storms.

Meanwhile, MacArthur had perfected his plans for the formal surrender ceremony, and on Aug. 21 he forwarded a detailed schedule to the Japanese Government. But the violent storms that struck the home islands of Japan on Aug. 22 forced a short postponement of MacArthur's schedule.

All preparations for the surrender ceremony were by now well under way. It was apparent that the Japanese were going to be entirely cooperative and all their messages indicated a strong desire to accommodate the victors. Interestingly enough, Stalin did not share this opinion. He would have handled the situation quite differently. Ambassador Harriman reported Stalin's comments on our plans.

"For your information as a matter of general interest," he cabled, "in my conversation with Stalin on Aug. 27 he showed great interest in and asked me about the setting for the Japanese surrender. When I told him as much as I knew about it, he commented that there were considerable risks; the Japanese were treacherous people and there were many 'crazy cutthroats' left. He said he would have taken some hostages to protect against incidents. He suggested that it would have been more advisable to order all Japanese ships, airplanes, etc., to Manila, and then have the Japanese come to MacArthur's headquarters to sign the surrender. When I explained the desirability of bringing home to the Japanese their defeat by having the surrender signed in the heart of Japan, he stated that the large armada must be very impressive. It was risky, but if there were no incidents the armada and the troops landed by air would be a most impressive demonstration of strength to the Japanese people."

I decided that I would speak to the nation in connection with the surrender ceremony, and on Aug. 28 MacArthur was so informed. At the last minute, it took some frantic exchanges between Tokyo and Washington to get the timing fixed—amidst a flurry of other messages that sought to unsnarl some details that had become confused.

Mr. Truman Listens to Proceedings.

On the evening of Sept. 1, I, like millions of my fellow-citizens, listened to the description of the proceedings aboard the Missouri.

I was thinking of the history of previous occasions when dictators and absolute rulers had brought disaster to their people and their countries. There had been Philip II of Spain and his armada, the destruction of which was the beginning of the end for Spain as a world power. Then there was Louis XIV and the Battle of Blenheim; Napoleon and Waterloo; the Kaiser; Hitler; and now—the war lords of Japan. This second surrender of World War II marked the ignominious defeat and downfall of the second of the world's cruellest dictatorial governments.

I was wondering that night if the world, and particularly ourselves, had learned anything—whether we would profit from our terrible mistakes of World War I or would we repeat them. I was in the midst of these thoughts when the announcer in Tokyo Bay switched the broadcast to the White House, and I spoke to the nation.

"My fellow Americans," I said in part, "the thoughts and hopes of all America—indeed of all the civilized world—are centered tonight on the battleship Missouri. There on that small piece of American soil anchored in Tokyo harbor the Japanese have just officially laid down their arms. They have signed terms of unconditional surrender."

"Four years ago the thoughts and fears of the whole civilized world were centered on another piece of American soil—Pearl Harbor. The mighty threat to civilization which began there is now laid to rest. It was a long road to Tokyo—and a bloody one."

"We shall not forget Pearl Harbor."

"The Japanese militarists will not forget the U.S.S. Missouri."

Tomorrow, Mr. Truman turns to the problems of peace; he submits his "Fair Deal" program to the Congress.

Statesmen Talk of

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

HYPOCRISY is an ugly word. Yet it is really the only word that properly describes the western governments' approach to the Geneva meeting of foreign ministers.

At no time since world war II has the gap been so startling between what the statesmen have been saying in public and what they have been saying among themselves. The public line, of course, is to be sweetly optimistic and so to encourage "the spirit of Geneva."

But in these last weeks, large groups of British, French and American policy makers have been laboring to prepare for this meeting of foreign ministers, which is supposed to translate the "spirit of Geneva" into practical action.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Minister Harold Macmillan and France's Antoine Pinay have met at length in New York. Their staffs have worked still longer and harder.

And what has been the theme of these almost fevered conferences? As one highly placed but somewhat cynical conferee is reported to have remarked, the theme has been "how to put the best face we can on the setbacks we have to expect."

There are three main points on the agenda of the forthcoming negotiation with the Soviets: Cultural exchanges between the East and West blocs; reunification of Germany; and disarmament. Cultural exchanges, no doubt, will afford a golden opportunity to show "the spirit of Geneva" at its best.

But on the two really substantive points, the outlook is a bit different. On Germany, for instance, Dulles recently predicted that the Soviets would be "forced" to let the two parts of the country come together again. At Geneva, the three western foreign ministers will offer the Soviets a European security pact, guaranteed by all, if they will consent to German reunification with no strings at-

GALLUP POLL

Majority Still for Eisenhower
If He Runs With Doctor's OK

56 Pct. of Persons Polled Say They
Would Vote for Him, but 51 Pct.
Think He Should Not Make Race.

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J.

ONE of the most remarkable demonstrations of the esteem in which President Eisenhower is held by voters of the country turns up in a survey just completed by the Institute.

If his doctors were to give the President a green signal and he decides to seek re-election, a majority of voters today say they would want him for a second term despite what they know about his health.

Fifty-six per cent of all voters questioned say they would vote for him under those two conditions, while 31 per cent say they would not, and 13 per cent express no opinion.

The number who say they would vote for the President is virtually the same as the vote he received in 1952. In winning over Adlai Stevenson, Mr. Eisenhower polled 55.4 per cent of the two-party vote.

When it comes to the question of whether the President should run again, even with the blessing of his doctors, the survey finds a thin majority of voters believing that he should not.

And the best guess of a majority of voters today is that he will not run again in 1956, even if his doctors say it is all right.

Those are the major findings of a survey in which the Institute assigned its nation-wide corps of reporters to first ask the following questions of a representative cross-section of voters:

"1. If Eisenhower's doctors say it is all right, and he decides to run, would you vote for him?"

Yes, would — 56%
No, would not — 31%
Undecided — 13%

A measure of the influence that Eisenhower has with voters in all parties is shown by the fact that 28 per cent of Democrats and 61 per cent of Independents say today they would vote for him.

Among G.O.P. voters, 89 per cent say they would vote for the President despite his illness, as the following table shows:

Yes, would — 89%
No, would not — 11%
Undecided — 0%

Of interest also is the fact that a greater proportion of women than men say they would vote for the President if he were a candidate, as was the case in the 1952 election.

The next question:

"2. If his doctors say it is all right, do you think Eisenhower should run in 1956?"

Yes, should — 51%
No, should not — 49%
Undecided — 0%

Voters also were asked:

"3. If his doctors say it is all right, do you think Eisenhower will run in 1956?"

Yes, will — 33%
No, will not — 67%
Can't say — 0%

The country and the world have been led to believe that the American government thinks disarmament will be easy, if only a sound inspection system can be worked out first. This impression was enormously strengthened when President Eisenhower captured everyone's imagination with his aerial inspection proposal at the summit meeting.

But in fact, disarmament will not be easy, even if the Soviets accept a copper-riveted inspection system. There is no agreed British-French-American disarmament plan. There is, not even an agreed American plan. There is just a high-level study group, named by Harold Stassen, whose members are thrashing around trying to find a plan.

meanwhile, the American policymakers have carried the new diplomacy to what could prove to be a most dangerous extreme.

U.S. Foreign Aid
In Year Drops
To 4½ Billion

$760,000,000 Decline
Result of 28
Pct. Decrease in Military Funds.

WASHINGTON,

Oct. 24 (AP).

THE Department of Commerce said yesterday that United States net foreign aid in the 12 months which ended last June 30 totaled 4½ billion dollars. This was $760,000,000 less than in the previous fiscal year.

The department attributed the decrease to a 28 per cent drop in military foreign aid.

Other types of aid grants increased by 23 per cent during the 12 months, reversing a five-year downward trend in the cost of non-military foreign aid. These other types of foreign aid, including relief shipments, developmental help and technical assistance, plus cash payments for the support of troops in Indochina, totaled $1,900,000,000 in fiscal 1955. The cash payments for the support of troops in Indochina was classified as nonmilitary help because it was considered financial assistance to France and the three Indochinese states, replacing sums spent by them on their troops.

Cash payments of this type to France in the fiscal year ended last June 30 totaled more than $500,000,000.

The decline in military aid deliveries of goods and services applied mostly to western European countries, the report said. Since 1953 shipments of military aid have fallen off by approximately 50 per cent.

The report said that last year United States credit collections exceeded new loans by $17,000,000. At the end of June, 1955, long-term foreign debts to the United States Government, exclusive of World War I debts, stood at approximately 11¼ billion dollars.

During the 12 months which ended last June 30, the United States collected $22,000,000 interest on these loans.

THOMAS L. STOKES

A Flourishing But Provincial South

IN THEIR CLOSING SESSION here, Southern governors were discussing the amazing industrial development of the South. This miraculous progress had been summarized for them in a glittering array of statistics embodied in a comprehensive report covering the South's abundant natural resources and new and flourishing industries.

During the discussions there were frequent expressions of resentment at charges from the East and North, particularly New England, that the South is luring plants from those areas by special concessions of all sorts that they claim are unfair. Entering a broad denial of the allegations, Gov. Orval Folsom of Arkansas said only one per cent of the migration southward involved the practices complained about.

Folsom.

'Welcome to Alabama.'

Then Gov. "Big Jim" Folsom of Alabama rose to his full six-foot-eight to give a twist to the subject. He explained that his state had just recently adopted the idea of creating a commission on industrial development.

He said an important part of its work would be to help Alabama industries that went to establish branches in other states, East, West.

"We'll help our industries to establish branches in New England, Minnesota, Pennsylvania—anywhere they want to go," he said. "We want our folks to expand their business."

Then he added, with a wise grin: "But we'll welcome any industry which wants to come to Alabama, and will help them locate here."

"As far as I'm concerned, the civil war is over—and we want those Yankee dollars."

Politics Trails Business.

The Alabama Governor, a salty and earthy fellow whose understanding of the realities has got him twice elected chief executive of this state, thus summed up, as he can in his folksy fashion, a familiar paradox that was so clearly demonstrated once again by Southern Democratic Governors as they thought out loud about their economic and political problems, both in and outside of their formal sessions here at the annual Southern Governors Conference.

Industrially, the South has joined the Union, making itself an integral part of the national life with a flow back and forth of business that benefits it and other sections of the country. But politically, the Civil War is still on, and within the Democratic party, between the Confederate and Yankee wings.

This is exemplified in the constant fretful talk you hear wherever Southern politicians gather—as was the case here—that the South is "ignored" in the formulation of party policy, that it does not have the voice it should have in the choice of presidential candidates.

Pre-Civil War Concept.

What is really meant, you discover as you listen, is that the South is not permitted to run the whole party. That seems to be what the politicians here consider a God-given right—to run the party—and they insist upon it.

One also gets a sense of unreality which probably goes back in its inspiration to the pre-Civil War era when the South was dominant in the national Government. That, of course, a long time ago.

Only "the South" still exists as a distinct political entity. You never hear any other section insisting upon dominating a great political party. Nothing exists elsewhere in this respect—not "the East" or "the Middle West" or "the West."

Minority Rules Congress.

Nor do you find politicians in those geographical divisions constantly planning, as they do in the South and as the governors did again here, to form a cohesive political bloc to regain for "the South" what is called its "proper share" in direction of the Democratic party.

It all seems somewhat strange, too, when you know that the South, representing a minority of the people of the country and a minority of the Democratic party, is dominant in Congress, occupying virtually all of the key posts of power.

One way to change the inverted and isolated character of the South politically would be by a strong two-party system with a healthy Republican party. But, while this seemed to be getting nearer after the Eisenhower invasion of 1952, it seems to be slowing up again.

UNION LEADER SEES PERIL IN AUTOMATION

Carey Says It Is Nonsense to Say New Jobs Will Be Created.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—James B. Carey, president of the CIO Electrical Workers union, today asserted it's "a lot of nonsense to say automation will create new jobs."

"It's a deliberate way of fooling the public," he told a Senate-House subcommittee studying the impact of the growing use of automatic devices in factories and offices.

Carey, who also is secretary-treasurer of the CIO, said output and sales in the electrical and related industries were soaring "but employment goes down." As automation increases, he contended, more money must find its way into workers' pockets or the nation face "inevitable depression."

Senator Ralph E. Flanders (Rep., Vermont), said the introduction of mass-production automation has resulted in shorter hours and higher wages. He said he couldn't be "disturbed" if automation also contributed to short hours and higher wages at no higher prices.

"I agree," Carey said, "and prices should go down."

Another witness, William W. Barton, president of W. F. and John Barnes Co., a machine tool manufacturing plant in Rockford, Ill., said "automation always has been with us and is the backbone of our economic progress."

Barton said industry must recognize the fruits of increased production must be divided in a fair manner. Labor, he said, must not demand so large a share of the added wealth that it will stifle the ability of industry to place more capital per worker at labor's disposal.

NAVY DAY PROCLAIMED FOR THURSDAY BY TUCKER

A proclamation designating Thursday as Navy Day in St. Louis was issued today by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker. He said that on that date in 1775 the Continental Congress received a bill providing and establishing a Naval fleet "to protect the lives and property of a young and struggling nation."

The Mayor said it was appropriate that we utilize this date to inform our citizens of the current size and activity of our Navy and to re-dedicate ourselves to those principles of freedom and self government which are guaranteed by our Constitution and protected by the Navy.

Mayor Tucker presented the proclamation to Cmdr. J. R. McKnight, commanding officer of the Navy and Marine Corps center here, and William K. Havestick, president of the St. Louis Council of the Navy League. On behalf of the league, Havestick presented the Mayor a pen and pencil set for his desk.

KETC'S 'FINDER' PLANS SERIES OF STARGAZING TRIPS

Next outing to be organized by "The Finder" program of Educational Television Station KETC, which attracted more than 6000 children to Deep Springs Farm Saturday, will be a series of "stargazing parties" late this fall, it was announced today.

Large telescopes will be set up at a location in the county, and youngsters will take a look at the heavens under tutelage of Steve Bloomer, "The Finder," and astronomers, Saturday's expedition to the farm of Will Eakin near Allenton was considered a great success.

Eakin said he had never seen a more orderly, well-behaved crowd. He said the children, including large numbers of Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, left the place cleaner than they found it. There was no damage to crops.

Guitar-playing Steve Bloomer said some city visitors were puzzled by the large cake of salt kept in the barnyard for cattle. The salt was badly eroded by licking. One woman, with a group of Brownies in tow, gathered them around the salt and said: "This is a contour model of Mr. Eakin's farm."

NEIGHBORHOOD PARTICIPATION URGED IN BLOOD CAMPAIGN

A plea for neighborhood-wide participation in two blood-donation collections this week was made today by the St. Louis chapter of the American Red Cross. Increased need of 21 hospitals that receive their red blood supply from the Red Cross was given as the reason for the plea.

The bloodmobile will visit the Bar Association, 706 Chestnut street, Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

On Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., the chapter's bloodmobile will be at 920 South Taylor avenue, Freund's Bakery, which has invited all residents and employees in the vicinity to take part.

SCHOOL EMPLOYEE HONORED

More than 50 former pupils at St. Philomena's Technical School, 5300 Cabanne avenue, attended a celebration yesterday honoring Miss Anna Cox, who has been an employee of the school for the last 50 years. She started working there as a student, and has served in numerous capacities at the school.

Miss Cox, 62 years old, has been a receptionist at the institution since 1943, when it began functioning as a central retreat house, day nursery and child guidance center.

U.N. MARKING TENTH ANNIVERSARY TODAY

Worldwide Celebrations Are Held—Main Ceremonies in New York.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 24 (UP)—The United Nations marked its tenth anniversary today in world-wide celebrations that ranged from "fires of joy" in Togoland to solemn speeches in Manhattan.

The General Assembly proclaimed Oct. 24 "United Nations day" in 1947 to mark the anniversary of the signing of the charter in San Francisco. The main ceremonies were in New York, site of the U.N. headquarters.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt participated in ceremonies attended by some 300 persons in New York City Hall.

Hammarskjöld and Jose Maza of Chile, President of the General Assembly, address a concert tonight to be presented in the Assembly chamber for officials and delegations and their guests.

Maza, in an anniversary speech, predicted the forthcoming Geneva conference "shall have some new results." Maza, appearing on a National Broadcasting Co. television program, said, however, "It will be the scientists, much more than the politicians, who will bring peace to us."

In a statement, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief United States delegate, called the U.N. "the most potent single engine in the world for influencing public opinion."

Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, said in a speech he was sure that "the skeptics of today who scoff at the United Nations will be as wrong as the cynics of two centuries ago who scoffed at the United States."

Hammarskjöld, in a special message said the differences between nations "are as apparent as ever, but we see better than before our dependence upon each other and upon the preservation of peace among us."

In South Korea, President Syngman Rhee expressed regret that Soviet Russia "brazenly" continue to hold their seats in the U.N. although he said they are "traitors" to the ideals of the world organization.

Entries in the contest, open to all professional and amateur artists living within 50 miles of St. Louis, will be accepted at the guild, 912 Union boulevard, tomorrow from 1 to 5 p.m. and Wednesday from 1 to 7 p.m. The show will open with a reception Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. and will run through Nov. 21. ## FIRMS INCREASING UNITED FUND GIFTS

Chairman Says Drive Off to a Strong Start.

First business firms and employees to report donations in the United Fund campaign have exceeded their quotas, it was announced today by William A. McDonnell, general campaign chairman.

McDonnell, declaring that the drive to raise $8,245,925 for welfare and service agencies was off to "a strong start," said that in each case, the companies making reports had given more than the record mended 11.7 in crease over gifts made in separate campaign last year.

Volunteer solicitors, he added, are meeting with a positive and favorable response.

High School Volunteers.

A group of 25 high school youths—called in service where campaign officials discovered that three Richmond Heights districts were not assigned to any solicitors—exceeded the quota yesterday.

The students collected $301 in the area near Clayton road and Big Bend boulevard. The quota there was $250.

The United Fund also announced that the Torch, a special newspaper written by 52 high school students as part of the campaign, has been distributed to 30,000 St. Louis families.

The students, from 34 public, private and parochial schools, interviewed directors of many United Fund agencies to gather information for stories about the work done by the organizations.

They received instruction for the project from Clarissa Start, writer for the Post-Dispatch Evening News, and received assistance from members of the St. Louis Newspaper Guild.

First Full Week.

The campaign, the largest civic fund-raising endeavor in the history of the St. Louis area, entered its first full week today. It opened officially last Thursday.

Kutis Ready for Chicago After Beating Two Pittsburgh Area Clubs

St. Louis Has Bax 80 Pct. Of the Time

By Dent McSkimming

With a 2-0 advantage in goals and a 9-1 edge in goals over Pittsburgh area clubs, the Kutis soccer team will now turn to the Chicago field in its quest for intercity opposition.

Forewarned by the rout of another Pittsburgh club (Morgan) a week before, Harnmarville came here with some sound notions about stopping Nick Jost's team. But, after 90 minutes of furiously fast soccer at Oakland Stadium yesterday afternoon the visitors were a tired and disappointed group.

Kutis, on goals by Wood Cook, Bill Looby and Bob Rooney, rejoiced in a 3-1 triumph, the third of the season.

Manager Harry Pitchok had an explanation for his team's failure to win. Two of his key men, Right Fullback Lou Yakopiec and Center Halfback Bill Baxter, were unable to make the trip here. Yakopiec, a Pittsburgh area traffic officer, suffered an injured ankle in a motorcycle accident Saturday, and Baxter was in bed with the flu.

"My replacements were not bad but we sorely missed those two regulars," said Pitchok.

"Off Our Game," Visitor Says. Center Forward Bob Craddock, who scored the first goal of the game to give Harnmarville a momentary lead, was sorry his team didn't function as well as expected.

"We were just plain off our game," complained Bob. "I know, we forwards didn't get a single good pass from our halfbacks in the entire second half."

But there were other reasons, too, why Harnmarville came off empty-handed. There were 11 good reasons, in the form of Kutis players. And there was a matter of team tactics, too.

Using a defense formula that has been discarded these many years by progressive clubs all over the world, Harnmarville kept four men virtually in line, across the field near its own penalty area. This tactic, did, in fact, give the Pittsburghers one more defender than is used in the "three-backs" style of play, but it robbed the Pittsburgh forwards of two wing halfbacks. The over-all result was that Kutis forwards had a lot of trouble breaking through for open shots, but 80 per cent of the playing time found Kutis in possession of the ball.

Harnmarville had no mid-field game. The two inside forwards, forced to do defender's work continuously, were of little or no help to Center Forward Craddock and his two lonesome wing forwards. Alvin Strickland, a tall ball was cleared from the Harnmarville penalty area. It went right into the possession of St. Louis' Jimmy Murphy, Bill Eppy, Val Pelizzaro or Tom Julius, the four capable youngsters who alternated at the wing halfback positions.

Forwards Forget Lessons. There was some class and a potential threat in the Harnmarville forward line, however. These attackers made good use of their very few opportunities. One good shot, by Joe Halasowski, hit the Kutis goal crossbar, and two good scoring efforts were picked right off the goal line by Fullback Herman Wecke who, in each case, was backing up Goalie Bob Burkard, who had missed connections.

So, the home team might well have been tied or beaten, in spite of the fact that it had control of the play from start to finish, with brief interruptions. The reason the outcome was in doubt was the shocking inability of the Kutis forwards to finish off what the backfield started. From center line to penalty line all the St. Louis boys made nice passes and moved with precision.

But, approaching the zone where good passes and good shots meant points they all suddenly forgot how to kick, run, trap, dribble or pass. How quickly, and completely have been forgotten the lessons taught by the late Hans Strickland, who coached the team for two seasons!

Losers Want Return Match. Goalie Malinowski's job was made much easier by the Kutis winger, Freddie Vasquez, who placed his corner kicks well within the tall goalie's reach. . . . One of the ABC's of corner-kicking is to get the ball out near the penalty spot, too far for the goalie to reach.

The defeat was Harnmarville's first in eight games. By contrast, the Kutis squad looked like a bunch of school kids; the Harnmarvillians are seasoned veterans. . . . Their manager visited the Kutis dressing room after the match and said, "You boys have a fine team; we enjoyed meeting you, and we would like to play a return match—when we have our two missing stars back in action."

Six of the Simpkins soccer players watched the second half from seats in the west stand, not taking written notes, but thinking about how they will handle Kutis in the coming cup games. . . . Bill Looby, after scoring a brilliant goal, was injured and missed the last 30 minutes of play. . . . The playing field was better groomed than heretofore. . . . Attendance was 1787.

The Falcons, one of Chicago's leading teams, with Eddie Murphy at center forward, will be here next Sunday to face Kutis.

20-Year-Old Student Leads in Bowling Tourney

Fitter Hits 2529 Pins At Arway

A 20-year-old Washington University junior, Howard (Sonny) Fitter, rolled a 12-game total of 2529 to take the lead in the Greater St. Louis Bowling Proprietors' annual city match game elimination tournament last night at Arway Recreation. He is a member of the Pepsi Cola five in the St. Louis All-Star circuit and carries a 200 average.

The qualifying event will wind up with two more six-game blocks by each male entrant and two four-game blocks by the women next Saturday and Sunday. The top seven scorers, plus defending champions Billy Welu and Ann Maloney, will then battle in a match game round-robin the following weekend to determine the new city titlists.

Fitter, who also bowls in the B'nai B'rith Chicago League at Nelson Burton Lanes, had 1238 for his first six-game block on Saturday's 4 p.m. squad, and then came back to tally 1306 on games of 234, 233, 246, 179, 175 and 239. This is his seventh year of bowling.

Another All-Star League bowler, Frank Mataya of the Grisediecks, had 2492 total for second place in the men's division. Mataya, who won the 1943 National Match Games doubles championship with Nelson Burton as a partner, had a first round 1248 and came back with 1244 in the second six-game block. Mataya was a member of the 1942 Budweiser team that finished second in the A.B.C.

Woody Hulsey was third with 1488 and Dick Weber, Budweiser's import from Indianapolis, had 2484 to occupy fourth spot. Don Carter, a two-time holder of the national match game singles crown, rolled 2442 and a Budweiser teammate, Pat Patterson, finished eighth with 2471. Another Bud, Ray Bluth, had 2355. Nelson Burton finished with 2390 at the half-way mark.

Mrs. Florence Argent, winner of the first two women's match game championship tournaments in 1949 and 1950, took over the top position in the women's division with 1489 total for eight games. Mrs. Argent, a member of the Bowling Squire team in the Floriss Scratch League, registered 693 in the Saturday session and came back with 796 score for her second four-game block. She had games of 195, 203, 185 and 213.

The former pacesetter, Mrs. LaVerne Carter, former national WIBC champion and teammate of Mrs. Argent, has 1481 for second place. Another former champion, Mrs. Ruth Murphy, winner in 1951, is third with 1478. The defending title holder, Ann Maloney, has 1426 for fifth place.

Tenpin Notes. Mrs. Carter competed on the 2 p.m. squad and then took a plane to Chicago where she won a prize on a television bowling show last night. . . . Defending champion Welu, who was required to take part in Saturday's opening round despite an injured right arm, bowled three games left-handed. He then retired to the sidelines to await the round-robin competition two weeks from now, when a ruptured blood vessel in his upper arm is expected to be healed. . . . There are no written rules for the local event and the proprietors' organization intends to cure this situation shortly. . . . Carter, Weber and Welu will join three additional St. Louis men bowlers in the national event. . . . There are two spots allocated to the women. . . . Carter started off with a 275 game in his second block to take the tourney's high single honors, so far. . . . Chuck O'Donnell, former Detroit star, had a 270 game in his 2456 score.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 24 (AP)—Philadelphia jumped to a comfortable early lead and never was headed in winning an exhibition basketball game from National Basketball Assn. rival Fort Wayne, 99-88.

High point man for the contest was Larry Foust of Fort Wayne, who got 20 points on four field goals and 12 from the free throw line. Pacing the well-balanced Philadelphia attack were Joe Grobski, with 18 points, and rookie Bob Schafer with 16.

U. S. Team Seventh In Fencing Tourney

MACOLIN, Switzerland, Oct. 24 (UPI)—Pvt. Werner Vetterli of Switzerland won the epee fencing, second event of the modern pentathlon world championships yesterday, but Sweden's First Lt. Bertil Hass and Lt. Per-Ove Nilsson were second and third, spearheading Sweden's victory in the fencing team event.

In the over-all standings Haase took over first place from Hungary's Istvan Szondi, winner of yesterday's cross-country ride.

Hungary retained the over-all lead in the team standings, but Switzerland advanced from third to second place and Sweden from sixth to third. The United States stood seventh.

No United States athlete has won the five-part, military-styled competition, either in the world championships or the Olympics, since the event was inaugurated in 1912. This is the sixth world championship.

SOYBEANS ADVANCE, GRAIN LIST RAGGED

Cash Corn Sells at $1.13 to $1.15, Lowest Since October, 1949.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Soybeans advanced a couple of cents on the Board of Trade today but a ragged tone prevailed throughout the rest of the grain list.

Old crop wheat futures were under the most pressure, reflecting hedging and liquidation. New crop contracts were ahead most of the day. Rye and oats held close to the previous final prices.

Corn eased at one time but came back toward the finish despite the fact No. 2 yellow corn sold in the cash market at $1.13 to $1.15, lowest since $1.11 was paid in October 1949.

Cash grain receipts were heavy. They totaled 631 cars of corn and 232 cars of soybeans. This was not unexpected. In fact, it appeared the bean receipts were not as large as some traders had anticipated. Short covering helped beans rally.

Merchants' Exchange, Oct. 24—Grain futures range:

High, Low, Close, Prev. Close.

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The

STRIKE HALTS 17 PCT. OF AIRLINE'S FLIGHTS

Out in Dispute Over
New Rule.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—A strike by flight engineers has caused cancellation of about 17 per cent of United Air Lines system-wide flights, a company spokesman said today.

The engineers walked out yesterday after a breakdown in negotiations over a new company rule that all newly-employed flight engineers must be qualified pilots. The engineers contended the rule jeopardized their job security.

Early today the airline said operations were expected to be close to normal, but a spokesman later said seven takeoffs from New York were cancelled and that the situation throughout the country was about the same. The spokesman said that as of noon, about 17 per cent of the airline's flights throughout the country had been affected.

A company spokesman at Newark, N.J., airport said the company was consolidating flights and using pilots who are qualified flight engineers on its DC-6 and DC-7 planes.

Odds Strong Against Comeback By Peron; Support Evaporating

Disclosures of Graft and Corruption Are Shattering Hero Myth—Labor Now Feels Betrayed.

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1955.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 24—Can exiled dictator Juan Domingo Peron make a comeback in Argentina?

Observers here believe the chances are 1000-to-1 against him.

Nevertheless, as long as he is alive—and particularly while he remains on Argentina's doorstep in adjoining Paraguay—he poses a threat.

Perhaps the most important factor against a Peron return is the rapid collapse of his Peronista party and the evaporating of the godlike reverence which he had built up in the minds of the workers.

Disclosures that Peron amassed untold wealth at the expense of the taxpaying public have effectively shattered that myth. Instead of a hero, he has been proved a crooked politician.

Exposures of Graft.

Only the diehard Peronistas are still waving his banner. And they have gone underground. But by word of mouth they have pleaded for the Peron faithful to "read nothing, hear nothing, believe nothing."

The plea is falling on deaf ears—ears of the public which are tuned to the every-day disclosures of corruption, graft, swindles and illegal operations which were part of the Peron regime.

Other factors of equal significance against a Peron return are:

The army, navy and air force are united to restore democracy through the provisional government. Of course, should serious dissension develop among the military services it would enhance Peron's chances.

Political freedom—this is giving rise to a rebirth of the free labor party as well as other groups.

The new People's Popular party, headed by Juan Tillo Bramuglia, ex-president of the United Nations General Assembly, is developing rapidly. Bramuglia is hopeful that his personal popularity will result in his election as president of Argentina.

Betrayal of Labor.

The fact that labor put Peron into power in 1945-46, then found that he betrayed the party's principles, is resulting in a swift revival under such men as Cipriano Reyes and Dr. Walter Beveraggi.

Reyes had swung labor to Peron in 1945. He broke with him two years later when Peron dissolved the Labor party and created his Peronistas. As a result, Reyes was jailed and tortured for seven years.

Beveraggi was more fortunate. He made a Hollywood-type escape from the country with his wife and baby while police were in hot pursuit. He became a professor at Boston University, returning here from Uruguay when the September revolution overthrew Peron.

Beveraggi outlined labor's political aims during talks with this reporter. The Labor party will consist of disillusioned Peronistas workers and persons interested in social reforms—"based on the Christian principles which Peron ignored"—and improved working and living conditions.

Coming Elections.

Elections are expected sometime during the next year or 18 months, depending on the progress made by the present provisional government in reconstruction.

With free elections and freedom of political parties, the party lineups would run something like this:

Labor—Strong and growing. Peronista—Weak and fading. Radicals—Strong as a whole but divided by intraparty strife.

Socialists—Well organized but losing substantial supporters to the newly formed Christian Democrats. This latter group is picking up support rapidly and has the vibrant national appeal of Catholicism in this Roman Catholic country.

Communists—Active underground but numerically thin. Already siding in with the Peronistas sowing the seeds of discontent.

Observers believe Labor and Christian Democrats could form a coalition behind a Christian-Social platform and win going away in a national election. And there is a good possibility of this developing.

All of which adds up to bad news for Peron and his fanatical faithful.

MOUNTAINS MAY AFFECT WEATHER OF WHOLE NATION

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24 (UP)—Sharp, high mountain ranges such as California's High Sierras are believed to affect the whole nation's weather.

The United States Air Force and the Office of Naval Research have financed a study of what effect mountains have on the weather. To carry out the study "flying laboratories," gliders, have been sent over the peaks. So far scientists have learned:

1. Air flowing over long, high mountain ranges plunges downward over the leeward side, then upward and downward again in a series of waves that often reach well into the stratosphere.
2. These violent up-and-down drafts are accompanied by large-scale horizontal waves which flow across the country like a river.
3. Where the air flowing across the mountain descends, it is compressed and heated but on rising again it cools and expands. If the air cools sufficiently for water vapor to condense, clouds form.

This indicates that mountain ranges are not merely local weather factors but have application to the entire range of weather research, according to project scientists.

NOT ENOUGH EMPLOYEES DIED IN RETIREMENT IN VERMONT

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 24 (AP)—Vermont state employees are so healthy they're messing up the state retirement system. George R. Buck, New York actuarial expert, hired by Vermont to check on retirement programs, didn't exactly criticize state employees for bringing on a situation which may eventually require a whole new set of rates and graphs. But he did say: "The actual number of deaths and the actual salaries canceled by death were less than expected. This condition is not favorable to the retirement system from a financial viewpoint and tends to offset favorable withdrawal experience."

U.S. STUDIES POWER POTENTIAL IN ALASKA

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Oct. 24 (UP)—Preliminary water gauging studies have been started along the Yukon river by the United States Reclamation Bureau so that hydroelectric potentials in the interior will be better known.

Wilbur A. Dexheimer, United States commissioner of reclamation, recently made an aerial inspection tour of the region and reported a great amount of electricity could be produced at Rampart, 100 miles northwest of Fairbanks. But, he explained, there is no market for this power; hence, no immediate need for a dam.

Dexheimer said power generated at Rampart, which lies downstream from Fort Yukon, could be transmitted to Seward and other coastal points. He said modern methods of transmitting power developed in the Scandinavian countries made it possible to send electrical energy to points 500 miles from the generating sites.

He also praised the Devil's Canyon project on the Susitna river as the "most logical source of cheap electrical energy for the railbelt region of Alaska."

The Susitna lies near the Alaska Railroad route.

Shivers Said to Be Losing His Grip on Texas Democrats

Party Regularity Gains Strength and 'Re-volt' That Gave State to Eisenhower Faces Trouble.

By CHARLES B. CLEVELAND
Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch
Special Dispatch, Copyright 1955.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 24—Gov. Allan Shivers, who led Texas to Mr. Eisenhower in 1952, appears to be losing his iron grip on the state's Democrats.

Party regularity is gaining strength. The loyalists seek a delegation nominally pledged to Lyndon B. Johnson, Senate majority leader, but which will go to Chicago "shopping."

Such a delegation would go to support the convention nominee. This would break the biggest stronghold of the southern "revolt," which gave Texas to Mr. Eisenhower.

It would also boost Adlai Stevenson's chances. Shivers, even this week, repeated that he would not support Stevenson. He thinks too much of Harry Truman (still a bad word in the south) rubbed off on Stevenson.

Odd Label for Stevenson. The moderates, however, give Stevenson an "odd label." They say he is "not unacceptable." It apparently means they are not red hot for him but wouldn't walk out if he were nominated.

"Despite peace overtures, a fight appears inevitable between Democrats who believe Texans should be loyal to the party nominee and those who want to be able to walk out if they have to. The showdown will come next May 21 in Dallas. Texas uses a ladder-type delegate system.

Voters attend precinct conventions and name delegates to a county convention. These, in turn, name delegates to a state convention, which picks delegates to the national convention in Chicago.

The system is ready-made for splitting. At any rung of the ladder dissatisfied delegates may walk out and hold their own convention. This was the basis of the 1952 Republican fight between Taft and Eisenhower forces over the "Texas Seal."

Important Committee. Control of the state's Democratic party organization is vital. The 64-man committee, in effect, controls the choice of presidential delegates through its power to seat, or unseat, delegates to the state convention.

At present the committee, which will rule next May, is almost solidly pro-Shivers.

But if he wins, his opponents will set up a rival convention. It will then be up to the national convention to choose between them. A repetition of the '52 battles.

The loyalists, however, are counting on winning at the grassroots level.

They cite political "old age." Administration scandals, declining Eisenhower popularity and tactical errors to bolster their view that Shivers is politically over the hill. He has been governor since July 1949. He broke tradition with a third term in 1954. They doubt he'll try for a fourth and believe he would lose if he did. This would make Shivers, in effect, a "lame duck" governor in 1956.

State Scandals.

There have been several state scandals. A number of "shoe-string" insurance companies went broke, some of which had political tieups. There was a scandal over sale of land to veterans.

Neither affected Shivers directly, but indirectly they were a blow.

Time has also hurt Shivers. As any other office holder, he has picked up enemies during the years and his organization has fallen off somewhat.

Shivers also tied his wagon too close to Mr. Eisenhower's star. At present no Republican is given a chance of repeating the President's 1952 capture of Texas. Even Mr. Eisenhower would have trouble repeating because of slipping farm prices and resentment over desegregation.

Shivers has lost some popularity, maybe a lot, over the dumping of Wright Morrow as Democratic National Committeeman.

In Texas there is every shade of politics from bright pink to folks who don't even think the Government should carry the mail.

Politically they fall into two camps: liberals and conservatives.

Morrow symbolizes the conservatives. In 1940 he backed vice president John N. Garner. In 1944 he led the Texas regulars against the New Dealers.

In 1948 Morrow was for Senator Richard Russell of Georgia as the party nominee. In 1952 he was for Mr. Eisenhower. The national committee ousted him, but the Shivers-dominated state committee refused to obey until a few weeks ago.

Morrow then complained publicly that he was axed simply to get the Governor back in good standing nationally.

In Morrow's place, Shivers named Ben Ramsey, now lieutenant governor. Ramsey has followed in Shivers's political footsteps except in 1952 when he voted for but didn't campaign for Stevenson.

Johnson Is Coming Leader.

Ramsey is not now regarded as heavy enough to rule Texas. I use Speaker Sam Rayburn, the party's elder statesman, rarely mixes in state politics. Senator Price Daniel, who hopes to become Governor, is keeping hands off. Lyndon Johnson, now on his ranch near Austin recovering from a heart attack, is the apparent coming leader in Texas. As Senate majority leader—and in Texas politics—he is highly regarded.

His great talent lies in compromise, an ideal qualification for the Texas middle-roads. He is a close friend of Shivers, yet led the fight for Stevenson in 1952. Johnson has, and will, remain neutral on Democratic candidates.

He feels the record of the coming Congress will make or break the Democratic nominee, whoever he is. Choosing sides early will wreck his leadership, he feels.

His eventual decision will be important. Informal efforts to make him a spokesman for the entire "solid south" have failed.

For one thing, there is no agreed southern choice.

Secondly Johnson's own future won't be decided until doctors give him a final checkup in December. But his prestige as Senate leader and his role—if he makes it—of heading the Texas delegation, largest in the South, may well make him the voice of the South at the Chicago convention.

SECOND FIRM HIKES
NEWSPRINT PRICE $5

Abitibi's Action Permits
Identical Rise by St. Lawrence Paper Co.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (UP)—The Abitibi Sales Co. Ltd., of Toronto, notified customers today that the price of its newsprint will be increased $5 a ton, effective Nov. 1.

The action in effect permits an identical increase announced by the St. Lawrence Paper Co. of Canada to become effective on the same date. Contracts in New York provided St. Lawrence would not charge more than either one of two other companies. One of those is Abitibi, which has more than 200 customers in the United States.

St. Lawrence announced its increase last Tuesday. It was greeted by strong protests and expressions of indignation from United States newspaper publishers. They charged that newsprint companies were in some cases already making record profits and that the increase in prices already 100 per cent higher than 10 years ago was "neither justified nor wise."

The increase raised tonnage prices of newsprint from $126 to $131 as delivered at New York.

President Richard W. Slocum of the American newspaper publishers association, warned that a new round of newsprint price hikes would bring higher newspaper costs to most advertisers and many readers.

By the Associated Press. In Washington the Department of Justice anti-trust division today held the first of a series of planned conferences with United States newsprint producers in an announced effort to prevent any concerted advance in newsprint prices.

The department said in response to an inquiry that the talks with American producers began this morning, but declined to say who participated in them.

NIXON CALLS JOB EQUALITY
BOON TO LIVING STANDARDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said last night that everyone's standard of living would be bettered if there were an end to racial and religious job discrimination.

Nixon discussed, in a radio interview, the industry-labor-government conference on equal job opportunity to be held here tomorrow.

Representatives of 65 business and industrial organizations will take part. Nixon will preside. He is also chairman of the President's committee on Government contracts.

"Every man, woman and child in the United States is affected by discrimination in employment," Nixon said. "If all of the people who have been held back in some way were allowed to advance to their full capacity they would represent a consumers' market which would raise everybody's standard of living."

B'NAI B'RITH YOUTH LEADER

Ray Schoenfeld has been named chairman of the St. Louis B'nai B'rith Youth Committee, it was announced today. The committee is the policy-making body for the entire youth program of the organization in the St. Louis area.

Other officers for the coming year are: Hyman Feder, first vice president; Mrs. David Shapiro, second vice president; Mrs. I. Reznikoff, secretary; and Louis Schwartz, treasurer.

SUSPECT IN CLUBHOUSE BURGLARY SHOT, TWO HELD

One man was wounded and two others were arrested early yesterday when Illinois State Police officer Hubert Faltz and two Clinton county deputy sheriffs investigated a reported burglary at the Veterans of Foreign Wars clubhouse at Trenton, Ill., about 30 miles east of St. Louis. The clubhouse has been robbed six times during the last year.

The wounded man, shot in the lower back as he fled from outside the clubhouse to a parked automobile nearby, was identified as Paul E. Ralston, 39 years old, of Roodhouse, Ill. He ignored warning shots fired previously, police said. Ralston was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Breese, Ill.

Discovered hiding in the clubhouse basement, after having gathered a quantity of merchandise from the bar and cigarette machines, were two men identified as Frank Walton, 55, of Roodhouse, and Kenneth L. Walker, 45, of Whitehall, Ill. They were held at Clinton county jail at Carlyle on charges of breaking and entering.

STEVENSON DID
FARM FLIP-FLOP,
G.O.P. ASSERTS

Hall Says Illinoisan's 90 Pct. of Parity Stand 'Scrambled the Egg Heads' Backing Him.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall has accused Adlai E. Stevenson of bowing to pressure from Democratic party bosses by doing a "flip-flop" on the farm price support issue.

Hall in a statement yesterday criticized Stevenson and New York Gov. Averell Harriman for endorsing the rigid 90 per cent price props.

Both Stevenson and Harriman endorsed the rigid supports in statements over the weekend to a Democratic farm conference in Des Moines, Ia., called for a federal hog-buying program and 90 per cent of parity price supports.

Hall said that on Oct. 7 in a speech at Green Bay, Wis., Stevenson said that a 90 per cent program "was not the answer to the farm problem." But on Friday, he said, Stevenson sent a statement to the 13-state meeting endorsing 90 per cent supports.

"Scrambled the Egg-heads." "His flip-flop has scrambled the egg-heads supporting him," Hall said. "It must be obvious that political expediency rather than the national interest motivates their hero, Adlai."

Stevenson, when contacted at his farm in suburban Chicago, declined to comment on Hall's statement. But an aid, Harry Ashmore, said "I'm not surprised that Mr. Hall is panicked."

Ashmore said that before Hall tries to interpret Stevenson's farm policy "I would think he would try to explain Secretary Benson's."

Hall said that "a man who likes the pose of intellectual honesty, this is the quickest about-face in some time. He (Stevenson) must want the nomination very badly and is willing to stand for whatever he's told."

Hall charged that both Stevenson and Harriman, two of the most often mentioned possibilities for the Democratic presidential nomination, now are on record in support of two discredited farm programs—the rigid, 90 per cent of parity concept and the Brannan plan.

How Brannan Plan Works. The Brannan plan calls for paying farmers the difference between the market price of their products and a government-established price. Foreseeing a battle on the issue, Hall said "it now appears the Democrats may campaign next year on the 90 per cent issue, but their real program is likely to be the Brannan plan."

Hall charged that Stevenson "completely reversed himself" when "pressure from the Democratic national committee and other party heads became too strong."

SCIENTIST FACES
HIS 19TH RADIUM
BURN OPERATION

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 24 (AP)—A cheerful 70-year-old Italian scientist will pay today the nineteenth grim installment—part of his body—for his life-long pursuit of safety measures for radiologists.

Radium burns claimed the left arm and collar bone of Prof. Mario Ponzio last July. Before that operation, his eighteenth since he suffered radium burns in World War I, Prof. Ponzio quipped: "Here I go to the scrap pile again."

This time surgeons will take off his right hand in an effort to save his remaining arm from the spreading radium effects.

Italian science has lost 35 radiologists in research and clinical use of radium. Ponzio who is married but has no children, suffered radium burns of both hands in the early years of X-ray experiment.

AUSTRIA TAKES MIDDLE ROAD IN FIRST FREE ELECTION

LINZ, Austria, Oct. 24 (UP)—Austria's extreme left and right wing parties suffered defeats in yesterday's provincial diet (parliamentary) elections in upper Austria, the first held since this country became free after 17 years of foreign occupation.

Incomplete returns showed the extreme right wing League of Independents lost nearly 50 per cent of votes received in 1949 while the feeble Communist party lost about 15 per cent.

Austria's coalition parties—Chancellor Julius Raab's Conservative Peoples' party and the Socialists—achieved considerable gains mainly at the expense of the League of Independents.

MOTHERS FORM BLOCKADE, HALT TRAFFIC ON BUSY ROAD

DETROIT, Oct. 24 (UP)—North and south-bound traffic on "bloody Telegraph road" was halted temporarily today when mothers in suburban Taylor township formed a human blockade to escort their school children across the busy truck route. Police said at least 60 women turned out in a chilly drizzle to back their demands for a stoplight at the school intersection.

"They were strung out north and south on the highway to flag down motorists approaching the intersection," one officer said. "Others formed a chain at the street to usher their children across."

The women dispersed when the last child had been escorted across the highway safely.

WOMAN SENTENCED IN BROTHEL CASE

Christine Krout Pleads Guilty and Gets Two Years in Prison.

Christine Krout, a brothel operator in the 5100 block of Kensington avenue, pleaded guilty today before Circuit Judge J. Casey Walsh of receiving the earnings of prostitutes and was sentenced to two years on each of five counts, the sentences to run concurrently.

Assistant Circuit Attorney William Shaw, who presented the case, recommended a three-year sentence. Shaw emphasized that the charges did not grow out of the current investigation into reported pay-offs of police by operators of brothels.

Mrs. Krout was convicted previously of a liquor violation and sentenced to three months in the Workhouse and fined $750. She appealed but the State Supreme Court recently affirmed the decision of the lower court. She will be required to serve the three months in addition to the two-year sentence she received today.

She was a figure in the notorious Muech baby hoax 20 years ago. The mother of one of the babies in the case stayed at the Krout home before and after her confinement. Mrs. Krout also testified for Anna Ware in the unwed mother's successful legal efforts to get back her child.

Mrs. Nellie Muech had obtained possession of the child which she attempted to pass off as her own in efforts to exact payments from the reputed father.

GIRLS, 12 AND 13, ARRESTED IN $100 EXTORTION PLOT

WEST ORANGE, N.J., Oct. 24 (UP)—Two girls, 12 and 13, who extorted $100 from a New Jersey couple by threatening to kill their baby, today faced action by juvenile authorities.

The girls were arrested by police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents Thursday when they picked up a paper bag containing $100. The money had been left by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Friedman, West Orange, on the advice of the FBI, which was called into the case when a letter demanding the money was sent through the mail. The note also contained detailed instructions on how and where to leave the money.

Police said the girls chose the Friedmans because the 12-year-old had frequently been a babysitter for an older child of the couple. The girls were released in their parents' custody pending juvenile court action. They said they got the extortion idea from a comic book.

EXILES IN LONDON DEMAND RELEASE OF POLES IN RUSSIA

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP)—More than 1000 Polish exiles met in London last night to demand release of Poles held in the Soviet Union.

Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, commander of free Polish forces in World War II, told the meeting there has been no word of 20,000 Polish soldiers taken to Russia as prisoners in 1939 and 1944.

He added that 1,500,000 Polish civilians were deported to Russia in 1939-40—"and a negligible number have returned to their homes."

The meeting adopted a resolution appealing to world opinion and democratic governments to work for "release of our countrymen."

ENGINEER, BRIDE MISSING ON HAVANA-U.S. FLIGHT

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 24 (AP)—A honeymooning engineer doing work for the Atomic Energy Commission was missing with his bride today on a flight aboard his private plane from Havana to Key West.

Joel K. Richards, 33 years old, and his wife, the former Laura Thyle Wallace, 19, who were married Oct. 6 at Wellston, O., failed to arrive at Key West after leaving Havana at 1:49 p.m. yesterday for the 90-mile flight across the wind-whipped Florida straits.

The Coast Guard cutter Aridne joined Coast Guard and Cuban navy planes in a wide-spread search.

7 MARINES KILLED IN HIGHWAY CRASH

Hurrying Back to Camp in Car Which Skids Broadside Into Truck.

SANTA ANA, Calif., Oct. 24 (AP)—A sedan going downhill broadsided into an approaching oil tank truck-trailer yesterday, killing seven young Marines in the car.

It was one of the worst highway disasters in southern California history. Wreckage and bodies were strewn along the highway. The windshield broke off the Marines' machine, sailed over the truck and shattered the windshield of another car, but its driver was unhurt. The truck's radiator was embedded inside the Marines' car.

The truck driver, Jack R. Hubbard, 32 years old, was unhurt. He told highway patrolmen: "There was nothing I could do. They were skidding, then wham! They hit me. It sounded like thunder. Sparks went everywhere."

Patrolmen said skid marks showed the oncoming car was five feet over the center line, reeling sideways.

The Marines, returning to Camp Pendleton from weekend liberty, included Cpl. James B. White, -19, son of Arion E. White, Herrin, Ill.

Cancer Deaths in Britain Rise

LONDON, Oct. 24 (UP)—Deaths in Britain from throat and lung cancer increased from 8063 in 1945 to 18,406 last year, the Government statistical office reported today.

AUTO HITS PARKED TRUCK, MAN KILLED

Ben Brown Loses Life on East Side—Two Hurt in Another Crash.

Ben Brown, a laborer, 203 Short road, Venice, was killed last night when the automobile in which he was riding struck a parked tractor-trailer at Tenth street and Converse avenue in East St. Louis. Brown, a Negro, was 58 years old.

Driver of the car said he was S. J. Cockrell, a Negro, 300 block of Roosevelt road, Venice. He suffered injuries of the left leg and cuts. Driver of the tractor-trailer was Lionel Branch, South Bend, Ind., who had parked the machine while he went into a restaurant. He told police he left the parking lights on.

Two men were injured seriously late Saturday in an accident which involved three moving automobiles and three parked cars in the 5900 block of Collinsville road, northeast of East St. Louis.

They were Alex Aubuchon, 5401 Thomas avenue, Fairmount City, who suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, and George Rankin, 2325 North Thirty-eighth street, East St. Louis, who suffered a deep laceration of the lower back.

Driver of the machine which struck the one in which they were riding was a man who said he was Jodie Schwan, 1107 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis. He suffered minor injuries.

PILOT, 93, TAKES FAMILY FOR FLIGHT ON BIRTHDAY

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 24 (AP)—There's just one more thing to fly and that's a blimp. I'm working on that now.

So declared James W. Montee—believed to be the nation's oldest flyer—after celebrating his ninety-third birthday Saturday by taking three generations of his family for a plane ride.

Montee took over the controls of a converted C-47 after CAA pilot Robert Lewis got it aloft. Later Lewis landed it.

Montee, a veteran of 4000 hours in the air, said he has piloted 53 different types of aircraft, including a jet.

PLAQUE UNVEILED AT EISENHOWER ANCESTRAL HOME

ELIZABETHVILLE, Pa., Oct. 24 (AP)—A bronze plaque now marks the old farm home built by President Eisenhower's grandfather 101 years ago. The plaque was unveiled at ceremonies yesterday by the President's brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, President of Pennsylvania State University, who noted:

"If they (the Eisenhower brothers) have lived and strengthened just a little such principles as fear of God, freedom, justice and opportunity, if the family has symbolized these fundamentals, this tablet has a value."

The plaque, embedded in native stone, reads: "Eisenhower ancestral home—built in 1854—by Jacob F. Eisenhower—grandfather of Dwight D. Eisenhower—Thirtieth President of the United States of America—from this farm the family migrated to Kansas in the summer of 1878."

RE-ELECTED BY ZIONISTS

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 24 (AP)—The National Council of Churches will cite the chaplain of Duke University next week for "outstanding work for the welfare of people" in the field of church-related homes and hospitals. Chaplain Russell L. Dicks will receive the citation Nov. 4 at Cleveland, on the last day of the first national Conference on the churches and social welfare.

He is one of four to be cited. Others include: Dr. Robert F. Thomas, Sevierville, Tenn., missionary-doctor, for "outstanding achievement in church-related social work"; Dr. Leonard W. Bennett of Union Theological Seminary, New York, for contributions to social action programs of the church.

A citation for "outstanding social welfare in its community" will be presented to the Church of All Nations, Los Angeles. Mountbatten in Canada. MONTREAL, Oct. 24 (AP)—Adm. He is scheduled to meet in Washington Thursday with Adm. Arleigh Burke, United States chief of naval operations.

TWO SENTENCED FOR REFUSING TO YIELD WAR ORPHAN

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 24 (AP)—Two Dutch sisters who hid a little Jewish girl from the Nazi during the occupation of Holland were given prison sentences today for refusing to hand the girl back to her legal guardians after the war.

One of the spinster sisters, 57-year-old Elisabeth van Moorst, was not in court to hear herself sentenced to a year in jail. She is believed to be in hiding somewhere in Belgium—and with her is the girl, Anneke Beekman, now 14 and still a refugee.

Gertrude van Moorst, was sentenced to eight months. The sisters took 2-year-old Anneke into their home at Hilversum only a few weeks before her parents died in a Nazi gas chamber in 1943. They brought the child up as a Roman Catholic.

In a custody battle fought in the Dutch courts after the war, guardianship was awarded to the foundation for the care of Jewish war orphans. But the van Moorst sisters had smuggled the girl to Belgium.

A Catholic dominican superior and a former Dominican father received prison sentences of six months and two months respectively in the same case.

"$2.79* a month! That's all we pay for all the hot water we need—with our electric water heater"

say Mr. and Mrs. August E. Peter, 1405 Elenore, St. Louis County

MRS. AUGUST E. PETER

"When it came to choosing appliances for our new home we wanted the best. I can't tell you how glad I am we decided on an electric water heater. It's so dependable. We use extra hot water for cleaning the vegetables we grow and for other jobs around the house. Yet we always have all the hot water we ever need."

MR. AUGUST E. PETER

"When you build a new home, naturally you're concerned with costs. And that's one of the best things about electric water heating... it's separately metered so we always know exactly what we're paying for hot water. Frankly, I couldn't tell you how fast the electric water heater heats, because we've just never run out of hot water, no matter how much we use. But I do know this—electric water heating is really economical. Our bills prove it."

FED UP WITH PAYING THE SAME CAR INSURANCE RATE AS CARELESS DRIVERS?

NOW

Liberty Mutual offers 3 money saving plans to qualified Missouri car owners

You may save 3 ways!

Investigate Liberty's unique careful driver plans

- MERIT RATING PLAN. This plan allows careful drivers to earn a 1% reduction for every year of accident-free driving. Ten years, 10 percent, twenty years, 20 percent—with no limit. But every chargeable accident adds 5 percent. This fair-play plan was originated by Liberty.
- DIVIDEND SAVINGS have always been an important feature of Liberty Mutual—the company owned by its policyholders. Because Liberty insures only careful drivers we are able to return part of every premium dollar to policyholders. Dividends to Missouri car owners have never been less than 15%.
- COMMUNITY PLAN. In our judgment, certain areas of St. Louis have fewer accidents. We are rewarding the residents of these areas with additional reduction on car insurance rates because of the community safe-driving record. This new plan is another example of Liberty's leadership in the field of automobile insurance.

IF YOU'RE A CAREFUL DRIVER — YOU'RE ELIGIBLE FOR THIS LOW-COST QUALITY INSURANCE and here are some of the other advantages you will enjoy as a Liberty Mutual policyholder.

Financial rating AAAAA (Best's Reports). None higher. Liberty is the largest mutual casualty insurance company in the world.

Protection and service in all 48 states (in Canada, Hawaii and Mexico, too). Important if you are planning a trip.

Around-the-clock claims service by full-time company claimsmen throughout the country. Help is never farther away than the nearest telephone.

Service representatives (licensed by the state) provide you with prompt insurance service or information any time of the business day.

"One Stop" Insurance Service. You can get both car and home insurance under the same roof. Both available with substantial savings through non-assessable policies.

Direct sales service from full-time company salesmen who are your neighbors in Missouri.

UP FROM THE COUNTRY

A curious crowd of spectators watching a nimble raccoon, just slender enough to squeeze between the walls of adjacent buildings at 906 and 908 Franklin avenue, as it scampered down toward ground level in an effort to evade capture Saturday. Humane Society Officer Jim Loggins, patiently awaiting the return of his quarry to the roof, finally caught the wayward raccoon as it climbed over the top of the wall. Neighborhood residents said that the raccoon had been seen in the vicinity for several weeks, and its tracks were observed on the rooftop at 908 Franklin.

Widget, a distinguished-looking Sealyham Terrier, is seeking a berth in a quiet home where there are no small children or other animals. Raised as the sole pet of an adult couple, it is believed that he might not be adaptable to life in a young family household. Current Dog of the Week, the 4-year-old terrier is available for adoption on application, in person, to the Humane Society Shelter, 1210 Macklind avenue.

Ozark Tall Tale

Historical Account Of the Karkagny

By Leonard Hall

THERE have been many rumors, during the past year or so, about the return of the black bear and the panther to the hills of the Ozark country. Another exceedingly rare creature which has been reported with equal authenticity is the karkagny, an animal so seldom seen that zoologists have not yet arrived at a definitive spelling of the name. Thus we have seen it written karkagny, carkagny and carcagny and anyone who views the strange beast can take his choice. Scientists most familiar with it define it as "karkagny horribilis" and at least two sub-species are known to roam the Ozark hills. One of these travels the rugged terrain of the upper Current river country and is "karkagny horribilis" sub-species "ed-woodi." The other inhabits the limestone glades of southwestern Missouri and is sub-species "hornokhous."

Research on the karkagny is difficult to carry on, yet such evidence as we have would seem to indicate that it is a mutation—or at least a sort of mutation. This is borne out by the very earliest reports that have come to us, though these are somewhat veiled in the mists of antiquity. It seems, however, that in the early days of the distilling business—as also today—the very best white oak staves for making Bourbon barrels grew on the north sides of the hollow along upper Current river. And it was on a tract in this area, now owned by timberman Leo Drey of St. Louis, than an old fellow named Trolliver—or it may have been Tollinger—spent his days in the woods cutting stave bolts.

TOLLINGER—OR TROLLIVER—had a small one-room cabin where he lived a solitary life. One day in the woods where he was splitting oak blocks into bolts, he happened to look up. As he put it, "All at once I had a feelin' somethin' was a'starin' at me from behind." And the sight that met the old man's eye as he swept the undergrowth with his gaze was one to chill the blood. There crouched, and though the description he gave afterward was a bit garbled, we know enough about the animal today to appreciate the old man's consternation. For it was nearly as big as an ox with a lion-like head, bristly fore-quarters resembling those of the wild boar, a body like a tiger and a panther's tail some six feet long. The really remarkable thing about this tail, however, was that as it lashed back and forth, it struck showers of sparks from the flinty rocks on the woodland floor.

NEEDLESS TO SAY, when old man Trolliver—or Tollinger—recovered from his consternation, he dropped his maul and lit for his cabin as fast as he could run, reporting afterward that he had touched the ground only at every fourth jump. Yet fast as he ran, the beast behind him ran faster and by the time he came out into the clearing he could feel its hot breath on the back of his neck. The race was so close, in fact, that he didn't even make the door. Instead, he jumped into the rain barrel just outside which caught the drip from the eaves but which was fortunately empty because of a long dry spell. Fortunately also, it had a lid, which he pulled down as he jumped in.

For some reason the old man could never explain, the animal seemed nonplussed by the turn of events, though it could easily have tipped the barrel and made a meal from its contents. Instead of this, it paced back and forth just a foot or two away, gnashing its fangs and lashing its tail. How long this went on isn't quite clear, though it must have been several hours. Finally in desperation, Tollinger—or Trolliver—decided upon a course of action which one must admit was bold and which proved to be effective. He'd spent hours peering out through the bung-hole of the barrel which was constantly brushed by the tail of the beast as it paced past. Waiting until this happened again, the old man reached out suddenly through the hole and grabbed the tail in a death grip. Then in far less time than it takes to tell, he jerked the tail inside, tied it into a hard knot, leaped from the barrel straight through the cabin door and dropped the bar across it.

ONCE MORE THE CREATURE was nonplussed. It switched its tail a couple of times and the rain barrel swung clean around and smacked it on the head. That was too much. It let out a terrible howl and took out through the timber at a terrific pace. Tollinger—or Trolliver—slept under the bed that night and early next morning he left the country for good. In fact, he ended up in western Oregon and would have gone farther if the waters of Coos Bay hadn't stopped him. Some years later he told the story of his adventure, which nobody believed. It happened, however, that one of his listeners was a forester who was later transferred to Missouri where we'd just created the Clark and Mark Twain National Forests.

ONE OF HIS FIRST JOBS this chap had on his arrival in the Ozarks was a timber survey in the white oak country along upper Current river, which was made in company with a couple of companions. The three of them were climbing along the edge of a high limestone bluff, searching for a place to cross the river, when their attention was drawn to a scampering made by a half-dozen small animals taking off through the brush. And the fellow from Oregon, whose mind immediately flashed back to old Tollinger's—or Trolliver's—story—was the only one who could credit his eyes. For what the trio of foresters saw was a litter of cubs or pups which answered in every detail but one the description given by the old man of the strange beast which had pursued him. This one detail is important, for in the middle of each cub's tail was an object which was definitely identified as a small whisker, a descendant of Tollinger's—or Trolliver's—rain barrel.

So the karkagny sounds like a mutation. We see one or two each year, but research is handicapped by the creature's habit when pursued of dashing into a hole and pulling the hole in after it. Others must have seen the animal, however, and any observations sent to the Karkagny Club in our care will be entered in the archives of the society.

Etiquette Questions

By Amy Vanderbilt

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Is it proper for a widow, age 40, to wear her wedding and engagement rings?"—A.M.P., Denver, Colo.

She certainly may, if she wishes to. She usually does, particularly if she has children.

If she feels that by wearing her wedding ring she will discourage possible suitors she should realize that it is quite easy for a woman to let her status be known in any conversation with a man who interests her. She can do this quite casually, yet in good taste, by the use of such phrases as, "When my husband was alive" or "My late husband used to say" or "Now that I am alone," etc.

It is healthy for a woman who has been married to seek remarriage and she should never be embarrassed to tell her friends that that is her goal. Many of them will be happy to help her achieve it by asking unattached men to parties to which they have invited her.

Booby Traps in the Home

30,000,000 Accidents There in Year, Expert Says

By Claire Cox

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (UP). AMERICAN homes have become booby traps far more hazardous than the nation's crowded highways. A safety expert reports that a nationwide survey has disclosed at least 30,000,000 persons have been cut, bruised, burned—or worse—in accidents right in their own homes in the past 12 months. The National Safety Council estimates $20,000 non-fatal automobile accidents occur each year.

More than 5,000,000 of those injured at home have been so disabled they needed expert treatment by doctors or nurses, the survey showed. Little boys and their mothers headed the list of victims compiled by Alfred L. Moseley, a Boston consulting psychologist who directed the study. Older persons ranked third. Fathers and daughters were last.

Moseley said that the increase in household hazards has resulted mainly from growing tensions of city life, attempts to "keep up with the Joneses" and the "do-it-yourself" movement.

The No. 1 danger zone found by Moseley's survey was the American home occupied by a family with an income of $2000 to $5000 a year. Persons in the $5000 to $20,000 bracket live almost as dangerously, he said.

The safest homes, he said, are occupied by the childless wealthy who live in city apartments and the poverty stricken tenants of tenements. "The richest don't do things for themselves that involve hazards," Moseley said, "and the poorest just let things go."

Farm homes are much safer than city dwellings, he said, because rural folk are under less stress and strain and have their lives down to more of a routine. White collar workers, their wives and children are far more accident prone, he said.

THE "DO-IT-YOURSELF" MOVEMENT HAS CONTRIBUTED TO THE INCREASE IN HOUSEHOLD HAZARDS.

Among the "weapons" people turn on themselves are loaded guns, stairways without adequate railings, stored gasoline and cleaning fluids, power lawnmowers, loose rugs, medicines and even hairpins, Moseley said.

"DO-IT-YOURSELF" tools inflicted a total of 700,000 disabling injuries during the last year alone, he said.

The most common disabling injuries listed resulted in lacerations, fractures, contusions, burns, and scalds, sprains and strains, puncture wounds, poisoning, crushing, amputations and bites and gunshot wounds.

"Accidents result mainly from serious emotional conflicts and architectural problems," Moseley said. "For instance, a neighbor complains about apples falling from the tree next door onto his lawn. The tree owner is furious. He goes for his saw in the basement and in his hurry slips and falls down the stairs and breaks his leg."

"Every home is full of hazards. Rallings are missing from stairways. Rugs aren't fastened down. Risk-taking is part of everyone's normal experience. We must learn to live with the risks."

Take the children into confidence as early as possible. Teach them to share the family's plans, its troubles and its joys. Teach them to live within their material and spiritual means and so enrich them materially and spiritually. It may surprise some fathers and mothers to discover that a discontented child becomes a happy, helpful one once he is admitted to their confidence. Sharing responsibility, sharing ideals and plans is tonic to adolescent boys and girls and a stimulant to the growth of all children.

Take the children into confidence as early as possible. Teach them to share the family's plans, its troubles and its joys. Teach them to live within their material and spiritual means and so enrich them materially and spiritually. It may surprise some fathers and mothers to discover that a discontented child becomes a happy, helpful one once he is admitted to their confidence. Sharing responsibility, sharing ideals and plans is tonic to adolescent boys and girls and a stimulant to the growth of all children.

A Fresh Start.

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

EVERY marriage is a fresh start for two people, and any attempt to model that marriage after another is courting disaster. John and Mary, in the early, hectic days of their honeymoon and settling into their new home are likely to say, "There never was a marriage like ours." They are absolutely right, and one can only hope they will always believe it.

Many a marriage fails merely because husband and wife forget this fact. Instead of starting off to make a new marriage with the materials they have at hand, they try to bring in old materials from their childhood homes and recreate the marriages of their parents. But since these two homes were different, nothing but confusion results. It is as though two persons were trying to give a play on the stage, but one was speaking the lines of "Hamlet," the other "King Lear!"

WHEN YOU MARRY, make a fresh start. Forget what kind of husband and wife your own parents were. You're different. Study the personality of your partner, study your own personality, then figure how you can make this particular combination work successfully in matrimony.

Mary's father was an extrovert. He enjoyed nothing so much as being with people. He was always on the go. If she thinks, because she loved her father, that every good husband would be like that, she may be badly mistaken. Maybe John is an introvert who likes books better than people. If she's going to live happily with him, she'll have to take him as he is. She can't change him very much.

EACH OF US, in marriage, is unconsciously trying to reproduce the patterns which we saw in our childhood home. To the extent that we do so, we'll probably wreck our own marriages. If we can forget all this and simply ask ourselves what we can do to make a new marriage such as never before existed, we'll probably make a good one.

Dr. Popenoe has a booklet, "Success in Marriage," which describes ways in which you can proceed to build a real partnership, a 50-50 marriage. A copy will be sent to any reader who encloses a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and a dime to cover cost of handling. Write him in care of the Post-Dispatch.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

TOURISTS in Hawaii who ask how Waikiki Beach got its name are solemnly informed that a Chinese visitor calmly went swimming one day on an exclusive beach clearly marked "KAPU" (Hawaiian for "Keep out"). He was chased once, but he didn't understand a word the guard was saying, so he promptly returned. The second time he was booted off the beach bodily. He picked himself up indignantly, and demanded, "Why kicky?"

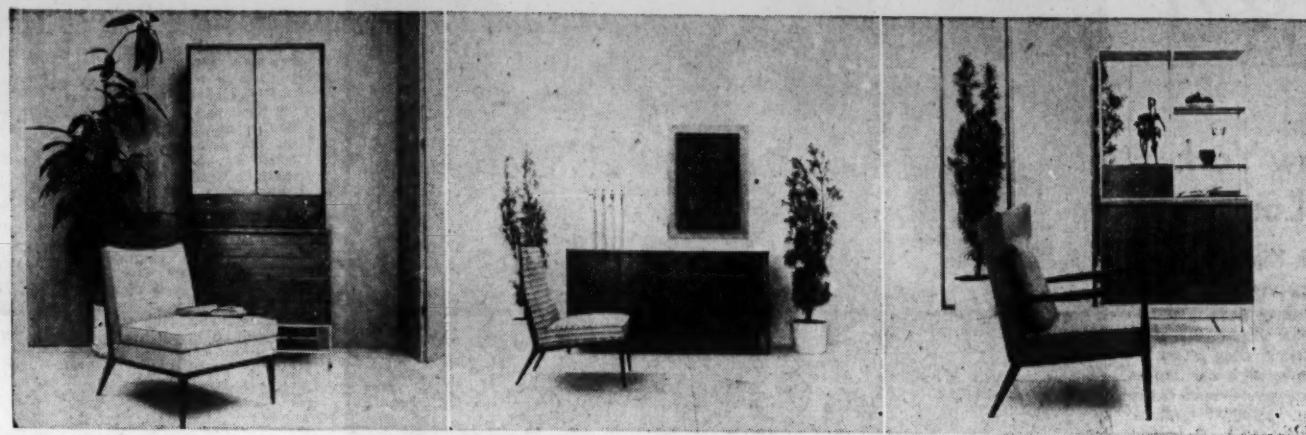

THERE ARE A LOT OF FIRST-CLASS WORRIERS in this country, but a special prize is certainly coming to the employe at Twentieth Century-Fox who addressed a note to Boss Darryl Zanuck reading:

"Isn't it time we started thinking of what to call our organization in the next century?"

A LAS VEGAS GARAGE, next to a wedding chapel, has a big sign reading: "Have your car washed while you get married!"

Furniture That Has Collector Appeal

Paul McCobb Says Today's Contemporary Styles Will Be Prized Antique Items of Tomorrow

A LIGHTNESS IN SCALE AND COLOR IS TYPICAL OF MCCOBB'S CONTEMPORARY DESIGNS.

By Clarissa Start

TODAY'S contemporary furniture will be the coveted and collected antique of tomorrow, designer Paul McCobb believes, and the young couple of today who are furnishing a home should buy with an eye for these lasting qualities.

McCobb, one of the top designers of contemporary, who was in St. Louis the other day to visit with local architects and decorators, has had the pleasant experience of seeing his work attain collector status without the passage of the usual two or three generations.

"Just four years ago we brought out a group of designs," he says. "The plant which produced them had to go out of business because of family problems, so that group of furniture has not been manufactured for several years. But we keep getting calls from people who want to buy it, and three or four pieces are now in museum collections."

Like other furniture designers of today, McCobb uses the term "contemporary" to describe his work rather than "modern." "Modern," paradoxically, has become "old-fashioned" since the term is used to apply to the tubular, metal, chrome, glass furnishings which sometimes looked like children's blocks with legs on them. "Contemporary," its advocates feel, is functional for today's living but timeless in quality.

McCobb feels that the furniture industry has attained a certain maturity and stability in this transition from modern to contemporary.

"Six or seven years ago this maturity began to develop," he points out. "After the war was over and people began to settle down in their homes and think of how they wanted to live, they developed new attitudes. At the same time, they were tired of having things forced on them as they had during the war. Things of inferior quality were being produced in building and architecture, magazines and museums had helped formulate tastes and people were better able to pick good design."

"The result is that we have developed a new period of furniture. It has a very definite pattern, an appearance that has no relation to any other period and was designed around today's needs. In future years, these designs will represent today, just as the U.N. building will represent the architecture of today, not the imitation Cape Cod cottage of a few years ago."

McCobb, a pipe smoking Bostonian, spent his early days as an art student sketching old buildings around Boston and studying them as reference material as to what had been done in the past. He attended the Vesper George School of Art, and although he studied painting and fine arts, was interested in design from the start.

He began his designing career with the Jordan Marsh store in Boston, later went to Lord and Taylor in New York as interior designer, then was put in charge of product development for the Koroseal Division of B. F. Goodrich Company. In 1945, he opened his own office, Paul McCobb Design Associates. He has won the good design awards from the Museum of Fine Arts for five consecutive years, and other awards from the Harvard Institute, Home Fashions League, Inc., Interior Magazine, and the Philadelphia Museum

School of Art of whose board of governors he is a member.

McCobb, who has one son by a former marriage, lives with his second wife, who is also a designer, in an apartment in midtown New York. The apartment consists of one floor of an old building which they rebuilt completely, tearing out the old walls to give a greater feeling of space and room. McCobb's principal hobby is photography and he also spends a great deal of his spare time in painting and drawing. He is designing a beach house which he hopes to build soon.

His visit to St. Louis was made primarily to introduce a new group of executive furniture which he has designed for offices. These are made in basic parts which can be assembled into custom made units and they have much in common with the contemporary furniture he has designed for homes.

"The desire of people today is to have their working areas as comfortable and as tasteful as their homes," he says. "They spend more time in their offices than they do in their homes, in many cases, and they want them to be just as attractive."

AS are his other furnishings, McCobb's executive designs are on exhibit at the Contemporary Showroom, 10 South Hanley road, a center which serves the architecture and decorating trade as well as the furniture stores.

McCobb is of the opinion that today's housewife has far better intuitive taste than she is generally credited with having, and that she doesn't need to be "talked down to" in the field of design. He is also of the opinion that we are just on the threshold of a new way of living.

"The whole theory of living is approached from a different point of view," he says. "We no longer consider our houses as boxes with four or five rooms. Now we have our living areas, our sleeping areas, our playing areas. We try to create illusions of space through the use of lighter scale furnishings, light colors, especially white which removes the shadows. With less bulk and fewer shadows we create an illusion of more space."

His advice to the woman furnishing her home is that she think mainly in one color, using the second color as an accent, the third as a touch. Most people tend to furnish their homes in too many colors and too many patterns. And equally important, they should avoid the fashionable or the faddy in furnishings. Instead they should look for the lasting qualities which will make a piece of furniture as good and as useful in 10 years as it is today.

"It's sometimes difficult to look for this quality," McCobb admits. "We see a great many pieces of novelty furniture, chiefly in lamps, coffee tables, fabrics, odd chairs. They're exciting to look at and designed to attract but not to last."

In automobiles, clothing, and home furnishings, people are attracted by the surface things, the things that sparkle, that have been put on to attract attention. These things are popular fashion. But when it's purely surface and has no basic logic or design behind it, it is good only for a couple of seasons.

"Today's automobile that is so dressed up with pretty trimmings and frosting is a good example. You won't be able to stand most of them in a couple of years."

We remarked that we couldn't stand some of them now. McCobb puffed on his pipe and looked as if he agreed.

We remarked that we couldn't stand some of them now. McCobb puffed on his pipe and looked as if he agreed.

McCobb is of the opinion that today's housewife has far better intuitive taste than she is generally credited with having, and that she doesn't need to be "talked down to" in the field of design. He is also of the opinion that we are just on the threshold of a new way of living.

"The whole theory of living is approached from a different point of view," he says. "We no longer consider our houses as boxes with four or five rooms. Now we have our living areas, our sleeping areas, our playing areas. We try to create illusions of space through the use of lighter scale furnishings, light colors, especially white which removes the shadows. With less bulk and fewer shadows we create an illusion of more space."

His advice to the woman furnishing her home is that she think mainly in one color, using the second color as an accent, the third as a touch. Most people tend to furnish their homes in too many colors and too many patterns. And equally important, they should avoid the fashionable or the faddy in furnishings. Instead they should look for the lasting qualities which will make a piece of furniture as good and as useful in 10 years as it is today.

"It's sometimes difficult to look for this quality," McCobb admits. "We see a great many pieces of novelty furniture, chiefly in lamps, coffee tables, fabrics, odd chairs. They're exciting to look at and designed to attract but not to last."

In automobiles, clothing, and home furnishings, people are attracted by the surface things, the things that sparkle, that have been put on to attract attention. These things are popular fashion. But when it's purely surface and has no basic logic or design behind it, it is good only for a couple of seasons.

"Today's automobile that is so dressed up with pretty trimmings and frosting is a good example. You won't be able to stand most of them in a couple of years."

Social Activities Fall Trips to New York For Several St. Louisans

By Martha Strickler Kieffer

NEW YORK, Oct. 24
CHRYSANTHEMUMS, in colors shading from bronze to white, are arranged in a panoramic display this week at Rockefeller Center. Nearby, skaters glide across the ice during the morning and afternoon sessions and throngs of onlookers, dressed in the latest autumn fashions, stop for a brief respite from the Fifth avenue crowds.

Several St. Louisans have been in town in the past week, enjoying New York's "new fall" look and gaiety. At the Pierre for a few days last week were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur B. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Howe III, and the Bethune Halls stopped there for an overnight visit.

Mrs. Gerard B. Allen checked in at the St. Regis early last week, and was joined there a few days later by her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Erwin Niedringhaus. The Niedringhaus came East in early June to spend the summer at their cottage at Little Boarshead, near Rye Beach, N.H. Ten days ago Mrs. Niedringhaus closed the house for the winter months and drove to Boston. It was at this point that she planned to enroute for New York, but due to the disastrous floods in the Westchester county and Connecticut areas last weekend, there was little or no means of transportation available.

Flood Damage Delays New York Visit.
WITH a delay of at least a few days at hand, Mrs. Niedringhaus visited friends in Boston suburbs. She spent one day at Beverly Farms, and another at Brookline with former St. Louisian Mrs. Hildreth Meigs (Elizabeth Cuendel). By Tuesday the transit problem was under control and Mrs. Niedringhaus took a plane to LaGuardia.

Here in New York she spent several days with her mother and her daughter, Susie, who last month enrolled at Sarah Lawrence in Bronxville as a freshman. Yesterday Mrs. Niedringhaus went back to Brookline and joined Mrs. Meigs. They will motor to St. Louis shortly—Mrs. Meigs to remain there for a visit.

Mrs. Allen will be in New York for another week or so, busily engaged in shopping for a fall wardrobe, taking in the new plays, and seeing friends. Last weekend, taking in the heavy rains, scarcely a soul was to be seen on the streets and hotel restaurants did a thriving business. When Susie came in to meet her grandmother for Sunday luncheon they found the St. Regis dining room packed to the rafters.

Mrs. Allen has also seen Mrs. G. Hayward Niedringhaus, who is down from her home in Boston for a brief stay at the St. Regis. One night last week Mrs. Allen had cocktails with Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Parsons (she is the former Mrs. Lloyd Wells of St. Louis). Another evening she joined Mrs. N. S. Chouteau Walsh for cocktails and dinner. Mrs. Walsh is just back from Venice where she attended the wedding of her nephew, Timothy James Hennessy, to the Contessina Adriana Marcello del Majno, which took place Oct. 3. Last week Mrs. Walsh spent with Mrs. Carl J. Schmidlapp and this week she is the guest of the Andrew Moreland. Residents of Westchester county and Connecticut were seriously affected by the flooding last weekend. In Rye the houses of former St. Louisians Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Plant McCaw (Louise Goddard) and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel de Menocal fortunately escaped damage.

Former St. Louisans Return From Trips.
BOTH the McCaws and the de Menocals recently returned from trips to St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. McCaw went there in the early October wedding of her niece, Katharine Elder, to Lowell Burton Linman of Chicago. This week they plan to see the Thomas C. Noels, who came East a day or two ago. The visitors will make New York their headquarters and take a few side trips to nearby colleges for football games.

Gay (Niedringhaus) and Danny de Menocal spent about ten days in St. Louis with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Niedringhaus. They flew from New York to Chicago, where Danny attended a banking convention, and Gay continued on to St. Louis. He joined her there in time for the Veiled Prophet ball.

Monday night the de Menocals came into town to have cocktails and an early dinner with Danny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. de Menocal. The senior de Menocals closed their house at Nantucket a few weeks ago and on Wednesday sailed for Europe to spend the winter.

Miss Sally Haloff Plans Wedding Dec. 20.

The wedding service, which is scheduled for 8 o'clock that night, will be performed at Kirkwood Methodist Church by the Rev. Harvey S. Anglin. A reception will be given later at Greenbriar Hills Country Club by Miss Haloff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Haloff Jr., 17 Forest Glen Lane, Kirkwood.

Bridesmaids will be the prospective bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Bruce Valentine of Laredo, Tex.; Miss Jeanne Fell of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Miss Mary Ruppert and Miss Haloff's sister-in-law, Mrs. Philip George Haloff (Lois Mary Gaertner) of Cambridge, Mass.

Holiday Fair to Benefit The Principia
THE PRINCIPIA St. Louis Mothers Club will give a Holiday Fair Nov. 4 from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night at Howard Hall on the city campus at 5539 Page boulevard. The fair will benefit The Principia building fund for the new country campus on Clayton road. The pre-school is completed on the site and construction has started on buildings to house primary, middle, intermediate and upper schools.

Mrs. William K. Protzmann is president of The Principia St. Louis Mothers Club. Co-chairmen for the fair are Mrs. A. E. Hammerstein and Mrs. E. E. Baer.

On sale will be handmade gifts and foods, children's clothes, handknits, appliqued wrap-around skirts, jeweled Christmas ornaments and homemade foods baked, preserved or ready-for-the-freezer. There will also be a parcel post booth with packages sent from around the world for sale, student-made gifts and candles and linoleum block Christmas cards. Luncheon and dinner will be served at the fair.

My Day A Quote From Vandenberg

By Eleanor Roosevelt

BURLINGTON, Ia.
THE meeting at Columbus, O., where I went to speak at one of the observances for United Nations week, drew over 3000 people, with the auditorium almost completely filled. Before the meeting I held a press conference which lasted nearly an hour, and then I dined with some 70 members of the committee. Gov. Lausche was out of town, but Mrs. Lausche met me at the plane and attended every meeting, as did the Mayor. I did three recorded interviews at the press conference, so I think our news media had every opportunity to cover most of the subjects they were interested in, which ranged from the United Nations and its work in the world to whether I ever did any ironing.

Everywhere I go, too, I am asked who is my candidate for the Democratic nomination in 1956. I think by now they must be weary of having the same answer in each place, but they go right on asking as though news never spread beyond the one locality.

MISS BAILLARGEON and I left Columbus bright and early the next morning, leaving the hotel at 6:40 a.m., and we had our breakfast on the plane soon after the take-off, somewhere around 8 o'clock. We flew rather low and were able to see the wonderful Ohio farming country. How wise they have been everywhere to keep their wood lots on every farm—and along the rivers and along the roads, too, there seemed to be rows of trees everywhere.

We landed at the Chicago airport at 9:30 a.m. and, thanks to trains running on Standard Time, we were able to drive into the city and catch a 9:30 a.m. Standard Time train for Burlington. A young newspaper woman with a photographer got on the train at Galeburg. I hesitated about giving her a special interview because I knew there was to be a press conference in the afternoon. She told me, however, that she represented the only paper in Burlington and had a deadline which would be long past when I met the press, which was scheduled for 5:30 p.m. I found the young woman not very familiar with the United Nations, but I hope I explained to her the reason for the United Nations week's celebration which culminates in United Nations day on Oct. 24.

OUR HOSTESS, Mrs. James Schramm, met us at the train and brought us to her house, where we spent the night. She and her husband have co-operated in working for the United Nations in this state. On the front of the program for the evening's meeting they had printed the very fine statement by the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg. I think it is one of the whole country should remember, and I quote it here: "The United Nations is our only chance to keep faith with those who have borne the heat of battle. You cannot plant an acorn and expect an oak unless you plant the acorn. In the Charter, we undertake to plant the roots of peace. No one can say with finality how they will flower, but I know without roots there will be no flowers. I prefer the chance rather than no chance at all."

FIRST PRIZE ... $2,000 Gift Certificate
SECOND PRIZE ... $1,500 Gift Certificate

HINTS FROM THE TOPIC TRIPLETS TO HELP YOU WIN

Topic is the vitamin-enriched milk...made even better by modern dairy science. Rich like cream, yet costs only about 1/2 as much as milk. Whips quickly, even with a hand beater. Perfect for "creaming" coffee, fruits and cereals. Enriches every recipe that calls for milk or cream. It's the smart, modern way to nourish your family, and save money on milk bills!

EASY! FUN! Think of the many things you've been wanting! And now you have a good chance to win them. Just tell us in twenty-five words or less why it's smart to use Topic.

FOR EXAMPLE you might write:
IT'S SMART TO USE TOPIC BECAUSE Topic is wonderful for creaming coffee, whips fast to make delicious desserts, and makes all cooking recipes calling for milk extra nourishing and less expensive.
USE CONVENIENT ENTRY FORM BELOW, or any ordinary writing paper. Send as many entries as you wish, but be sure to enclose three Topic labels with each entry. Get complete rules at your grocer's. Hurry! Contest closes soon. Enter today.

USE THIS HANDY ENTRY FORM
(or any sheet of ordinary writing paper)
